Britain Seen Ready To Back Cease-Fire Plan For Indochina

'Doctored' Photograph, Army Says

McCarthy Charged With 'Trickery' In Roaring Row Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army today charged the McCarthy camp with resorting to trickery and injecting a "doctored" photograph into Senate hearings on their roaring row. Sen. McCarthy denounced the accusation as "untruth."

Joseph N. Welch, special counsel for the Army, said a photograph introduced in the McCarthy-Army hearings yesterday had been "shamefully" cut down to indicate Secretary of the Army Stevens and G. David Schine were photographed alone instead of in a group.

Welch produced a blown-up picture which showed Stevens and Schine in a group standing before an airplane.

The two photographs appeared to be the same with the exception that in the picture offered yesterday other members of the group were removed, leaving only Schine and the secretary standing together.

McCarthy, examining the two pictures, said "I can see no doctoring" except that "a Col. Bradley was not shown" in the picture the McCarthy camp had placed in evidence yesterday.

"Mr. Welch was not speaking the truth," McCarthy said.

Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel to the subcommittee, said the photograph had been represented to him by "one of the parties to the dispute, an adverse party to Stevens" as being "a genuine, authentic photograph."

Jenkins had introduced the original picture yesterday while questioning Stevens as to how close his own relations with Schine had been.

There was no word to him, Jenkins said, that it had been "cut or altered." He added he had presented it in "good faith."

Welch said Jenkins had been "imposed upon."

Welch told Jenkins: "I know you wouldn't want to participate in a trick like this."

Jenkins said the picture had been given to him by one of the parties in the case "adverse to Stevens" as being "the genuine," authoritative picture with no intimation that it had been altered.

Schine, a wealthy New Yorker, is a former unpaid consultant to the McCarthy subcommittee who was drafted into the Army last fall.

The McCarthy-Army dispute revolves about a contention by Secretary of the Army Stevens that McCarthy and his aides sought by improper means to secure preferential treatment for Schine.

Welch gave Jenkins what he said was an unaltered picture which showed Stevens, Schine and others, rather than Stevens and Schine alone.

McCarthy, examining both pictures, declared Welch had made a "completely false" statement.

The incident stirred a furore with McCarthy demanding to continue on what he called a "point of order." Jenkins tried to silence McCarthy, saying he was making a speech and not a point of order. So did Sen. Mundt (R-SD).

Mundt accepted the new picture submitted by Welch and said he thought Welch's point of order was "appropriate."

Jenkins, however, said he thought both McCarthy and Welch were making statements rather than points of order, and they should be sworn in to testify about the facts some time later.

He tried to end the tempest by suggesting that the subcommittee proceed with the cross examination of Stevens.

Above the voices of Jenkins and Mundt, McCarthy demanded that "when I start to say something I'm not to be interrupted."

McCarthy further demanded

SHOWS STEVENS-SCHINE PHOTO. Special counsel Ray Jenkins brandishes a blown-up photograph of Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and Pvt. G. David Schine during his cross-examination of the secretary at the McCarthy-Army dispute. Jenkins had asked Stevens if he ever had his photograph taken with Schine and when the secretary indicated he wasn't too sure, Jenkins produced the picture taken of them at McGuire Air Force base, near Fort Dix, N. J. Stevens then said, "I think it probably is Schine."

Cheaper Rate On School Gas Turned Down

Spokesman Asserts Utility Committed To Price Filed With PUC

The Board of Education will have to pay the straight consumer rate for gas unless the Public Utilities Commission denies the Manufacturers Light & Heat Co.'s request for a permanent increase, a company representative indicated at the board's meeting Monday night.

"We do not intend to change the rate structure we have established," Thomas Stephan told the board. He is a rate expert from the utility's Pittsburgh office.

Asked if there is any further appeal the board can make, Stephan said a copy of the board's letter has been filed with the PUC and will be considered when a hearing on the permanent increase is held.

He said the company wouldn't change the rate because it is committed to the schedule it filed with the PUC.

James Lowe, acting president, said the impression he received from the PUC's form letter was that "it shuts the door in the board's face."

He told Stephan, "Your remarks say pretty definitely, 'This is it'."

If the request for the permanent increase is granted, it will be a boost of nearly 75 per cent for the schools, board members said, since schools previously received a so-called "preferential" rate.

Members said they aren't opposed to an increase but feel the schools are being discriminated against.

Under the rate in effect before Jan. 21, schools, churches and public hospitals paid 47 cents compared to 54 cents for the average consumer.

The temporary rate granted by the PUC established a minimum charge of $1.50 for the first 1,000 cubic feet, 72 cents per 1,000 for the next 4,000, and 70 cents per 1,000 for all over 5,000.

The permanent increase sought by Manufacturers calls for the same minimum charge and 82 and 80 cents, respectively.

In explaining the company's stand, Stephan said the adjustment "hurts now but had to come sooner or later."

The board's protest has some merit, he conceded, but pointed out the company is entitled to its cost of service plus a fair return on its investment.

Stephan said the company "doesn't intend to rob anyone and is only trying to get what it deserves."

He denied the rate is discriminatory.

School loads keep increasing, he said, but still won't support a preferential rate. Most schools are "heating loads" and they are inconsistent, he declared.

With heating loads, gas storage space is needed in order to have the fuel available when needed, he declared.

He said the company has to pay $7 million more for gas now than it did in 1951, estimating the increase at over 30 per cent. A couple of more increases have been proposed by some pipeline concerns, he added, and the company has protested.

He said the company's investment has tripled since the end of World War II, that it has borrowed money and has had to dip

Ohio Board's Ruling Waited On Gas Rates

PUCO Considers 'Emergency' After Daylong Hearing

The State Public Utilities Commission took under advisement Monday the question of whether an "emergency" still exists that would allow the Manufacturers Light & Heat Co. to charge higher gas rates in East Liverpool, Wellsville and other Eastern Ohio communities.

Manufacturers and the Natural Gas Co. of West Virginia — which also seeks permanent rate increases for Ohio customers — presented arguments at a daylong hearing in Columbus yesterday to justify the higher charges.

Solicitors of three district cities that have opposed the boosts appeared at the commission hearing. They were Joseph Cooper of East Liverpool, James McSweeney of Wellsville and James H. McHugh of Steubenville.

Cooper said the PUCO did not indicate when it would rule. The higher temporary rates were allowed by the commission in January, pending a hearing on a permanent rate increase the two companies seek.

A rate expert for the two companies told the commission a financial emergency still eixsts.

W. H. Wharton of Pittsburgh, rate analyst, gave the figures for Manufacturers and the Natural Gas Co. of West Virginia. Manufacturers asked a $1,600,000 rate increase and was granted a temporary increase of $1,205,000. It serves 41,600 customers in Belmont, Jefferson, Monroe, Columbiana and Harrison counties.

Natural Gas has 24,000 customers affected by the rate case in Monroe, Jefferson, Stark, Harrison, Tuscarawas, Carroll, Columbiana, Mahoning and Belmont counties. It asked $1,095,000 in increased rates and received a temporary increase of $264,000 affecting Alliance customers and $548,000 affecting customers other than those in communites that have ordinances that set rates.

Wharton gave the commission figures he claims show the company still is not collecting high enough rates. He said Natural Gas last year lost $204,000 in serving its Alliance customers and went $495,000 in the hole in serving customers in communities that do not have gas ordinances.

Manufacturers last year was $2,029,000 short of collecting enough for its gas to enable the company to realize a 6½ per cent return on its investment.

Under Ohio law, utility companies are entitled to a fair rate of return on the value of their property. Wharton claimed both companies last year increased the company's service facilities enough to warrant higher rates.

Valuation figures used in the temporary rate increase case were for 1952, he said, and the company's value is even greater now.

Wharton was asked by Robert L. Moulton, commission chairman, why Manufacturers seeks higher rates than another gas company doing business in Ohio.

Moulton said Manufacturers seeks a $4.38 rate for 5,000 cubic feet of gas, while Ohio Fuel Gas Co. of Mansfield charges $3.46 for the same amount. Moulton added Manufacturers seeks a rate of

Rains Fail To Halt Indo Gun Duels

Seasonal Monsoons Bring French Hopes Against New Attack

HANOI, Indochina, (AP) — The long-awaited big seasonal monsoon rains hit Dien Bien Phu and all of north Indochina today as French and Vietminh artillery kept up their violent duels across the battered ramparts of the besieged fortress.

In its usual brief morning communique, the French high command described the situation at Dien Bien Phu as "unchanged"

First U.S. Casualty Reported At Indo Fort

HONG KONG, (AP)—An American civilian pilot flying supplies to besieged French union forces at Dien Bien Phu is the first U.S. casualty of the bloody battle for that Indochina fortress, officials of Civil Air Transport said here today.

The flier is Paul Robert Holden of Greenleaf, Kan., who suffered severe wounds in his right side and right arm when Communist antiaircraft fire hit his plane over Dien Bien Phu.

Holden is the third listed American casualty of the eight-year-old Indochina war. Two American women, employes of the U.S. consulate at Saigon, were slain March 8, 1948, by a Vietminh ambush outside Saigon. They were identified as Mrs. Jeanne R. Skewes and Lydia Ruth James.

CAT officials said Holden's condition is serious but not critical.

and said there had been no important land fighting in the past 24 hours.

Since the rebel artillery attack stepped up Sunday, the French have believed a third all-out Vietminh infantry assault on the shrunken fortress defenses might come at any time.

Many observers expect the monsoons to hamper or halt Vietminh operations and seriously slow transport of the rebels' war supplies from Red China. The French hope this will force their enemy to taper off his efforts to overrun Dien Bien Phu's battered and outnumbered defenders.

But the advent of the big rains, accompanied by violent lightning and thunderstorms, also retarded the French counterattack. Little seas of mud oozed from the one-time dust bowl's red earth, slowing the French tanks and armored vehicles.

The heavy clouds and sheets of rain forced the French war planes to taper off their heavy attacks on the rebel legions tightly circling the northwest bastion and the lines of trucks and coolies bringing them food and munitions. Only yesterday U.S.-supplied Corsair fighter-bombers had swelled the French piloted air force for the first time for a record day of raids on the Vietminh.

Despite the weather, French transport planes kept up their drops of men, war material and food into the beleaguered fortress.

The Vietminh's heavy antiaircraft guns again and again threw up curtains of fire at the low-flying transports. The fortress gunners worked desperately to seek out the rebel batteries and silence them.

In the fortress' northwest sector, believed to be the avenue the rebels will use for their next drive on the French headquarters, the defenders and the Vietminh blasted at each other with mortars, heavy machine guns and automatic arms.

Hitchhikers Sought To Aid Death Inquiry

Coroner Ernest R. Sturgis appealed today for two unidentified hitchhikers to step forward with information that will help in the investigation of the death of a Cleveland woman who fell or jumped from a moving car on Route 45 near West Point Saturday night.

The hitchhikers' story is needed to corroborate the statements of Jackson Wallace of Cleveland, driver of the auto from which Bessie Frozee, 20, fell to her death, the coroner said.

He emphasized that the two youths are not involved in the case because they had gotten out of the car before the incident.

The coroner said Wallace reported picking up two youths 18 to 20 at the Roadside Park in Wellsville and hauling them to the Brick Church outside Wellsville. They are needed mainly to corroborate Wallace's story that the woman was asleep in the back seat of the car, the coroner said. He will conduct an inquest tonight at 7:30 at Mayor Wilbur Warren's office in Lisbon.

East-West Open Talks On Crisis

Molotov, Bidault Discuss What Nations Will Attend Parley

BULLETIN

GENEVA (AP) — Russia and France opened discussions on Indochina today amid reports the solidarity of the Western Big Three at the Geneva conference over cease fire terms in the war-torn Asian country was weakening.

GENEVA, (AP)—The East and the West discussed Indochina informally for the first time at the Far Eastern conference today amid reports Britain is ready to back a French proposal for a cease-fire in the Southeast Asia battleground.

Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov called on France's Georges Bidault this morning at the latter's villa and at the Frenchman's request. Reportedly they talked about what countries would take part in the conference's future talks on Indochina, now slated to begin after the discussions on Korea.

It was not known whether Bidault broached French hopes for a halt in the Indochina fighting.

But a highly informed conference source said Britain agreed today to join France in seeking an immediate cease-fire for the Far Eastern war.

This source said Prime Minister Churchill had telephoned Foreign Secretary Eden from London at least twice last night in reaching the British decision to back up a French call for a halt in the Indochina fighting.

U. S. reaction to the reported British move was not immediately known. But the Americans have expressed belief that the fluid character of the largely guerrilla Indochina war would make any cease-fire hard to enforce.

The Indochina talks were as yet in the informal, small-group stage. The 19-nation Far Eastern conference agreed at its opening session yesterday to take up general debate on Korea first, starting at the session this afternoon.

The Molotov-Bidault talks were the first contact of the Western Big Three with Russia on Indochina. The 19-nation conference is scheduled to take up that war after its discussions on Korea.

Bidault arranged to see the Soviet foreign minister after the Russian failed to show up yesterday for an informal talk on Indochina with French Minister, U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Eden.

The Western Big Three reviewed the situation in France's Far Eastern colony and were reported to have agreed on the nations they want at the table when Indochina comes up.

Diplomatic sources believed Molotov's failure to meet with the three Western ministers indicated a decision against any "Big Four" gatherings while Communist China's Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai is in Geneva.

This was regarded as part of the Communist attempt to put the Peiping regime on a basis of equality in all big power consultations here, something the Americans have said they will not countenance.

An anticipated East-West tangle on Red China's status was sidestepped at yesterday's opening session of the conference but there was some indication Molotov might be holding off only until the talks turn to Indochina.

Pressed for a statement on Peiping's role, a Soviet spokesman repeatedly referred the newsmen to the Big Four communique after the Berlin conference which agreed on the Far Eastern conference.

That announcement was specific on the composition of the Korean talks, limiting them to the nations which had troops in the war there

Business Seen On Upturn By Columbia Dean

Says It May Prove Temporary Rally In 'Slack Activity'

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The eagerly awaited business upturn may have arrived, Dr. Courtney S. Brown of Columbia University said today, but it may prove to be only a temporary rally "in a longer period of slack activity" lasting a year or two.

Brown, dean of Columbia's Graduate School of Business, said in remarks prepared for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce convention there are encouraging signs that a revival "started a month or so ago."

And a member of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors, A.L. Mills Jr., said in a prepared talk there is increasing evidence of "resurgent business activity" to which, he said, administration fiscal policies may give added vigor.

Brown said some economists who formerly believed the business upturn would come this summer or fall now are "beginning to veer to earlier dates."

"Perhaps the turn around has already begun," he said, but added:

"There is no convincing evidence that the incipient revival will be more than an improvement of several months' duration. It could turn out to be merely a period of stability at present levels . . .

"It may be more realistic to regard the present prospect of improvement as a period of rally in a longer period of slack activity. If we are wrong, so much the better."

Dean Brown questioned whether the nine-month-old business sag had been caused so directly by the adjustment of overloaded business inventories as most administration officials have contended.

The nation's economy may have passed temporarily from a postwar period of replenishment and expansion to a period that could last another year or two, during which replacement may provide the principal source of new demand," he said.

This would not necessarily mean "a weak economy growing weaker," Brown added, but it does cast doubt that any revival "will represent a new and sustained movement to new heights of prosperity."

"It would be nice to think that our worries are behind us, or that they will shortly be behind us, but that is perhaps premature," he said. "Unless there is a major change in international affairs or in domestic government policy, we may have to content ourselves with something less than a full-blown boom."

Judge Says Free Pinball Games 'Not Gambling'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A decision that pinball machines which give players free games are not in themselves gambling devices, was given in Common Pleas Court here yesterday by Judge Joseph M. Clifford.

The state liquor department has been carrying on a campaign against use of pin ball machines in places selling liquor.

The judge reversed a 15-day suspension of the permit of Kozy Korner at Powhatan Point, Belmont County. The liquor control board had ordered the suspension after two investigators played a pinball machine in the place.

But Judge Clifford's opinion did not touch upon the liquor department's recent order banning the machines from liquor places, on the claim the machines are gambling devices.

That order has been appealed by about 200 pinball operators and will be heard by another common pleas court judge.

Fugitive's Stolen Car Found At Weirton

A stolen auto that authorities believe an East Liverpool burglary suspect used after escaping from the Marshall County Jail at Moundsville early yesterday was found abandoned Monday afternoon at Weirton, police here were advised.

It was the end of the trail in the search for Hubert LeMasters, wanted for the attempted burglary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Home on Minerva St. last August.

Held for an attempted tavern burglary at Moundsville, LeMasters fled the West Virginia jail about 1:30 a. m. yesterday after picking two locks.

The 31-year-old Burgettstown man, wounded in the Moundsville burglary, was transferred to jail recently after weeks in a hospital.

Burglars Smash Glass After Looting School

LISBON — Police reported today that thieves entered McKinley School after a Parent-Teacher Association meeting Monday night and stole part of a movie projector, a cleaver and small change.

Police Chief Dalton Pike said they apparently entered the building through a boilerroom window.

The intruders took the change and meet cleaver from the school kitchen, then broke into Principal Della Wetzel's office to obtain the part from the projector.

Considerable glass throughout the building was smashed, Pike reported.

Ross Gilbert, janitor, discovered the theft at 7:30 this morning.

Governors Get Briefing About Big Problems

Two-Day Session Launched With Talks Mainly On Indochina

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Top administration leaders today began secret briefing of the nation's state and territorial governors on major foreign and domestic problems.

Foreign affairs was first up for discussion at the two-day meeting called by President Eisenhower. It was expected the talks would deal mainly with the critical situation in Indochina.

Vice President Nixon and Under Secretary of State W. Bedell Smith were to address the governors and answer their questions in closed-door sessions at the old State Department Building, next to the White House.

Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado, chairman of the Governors' Conference, was designated to talk to newsmen after morning and afternoon sessions today and tomorrow.

Eisenhower hit on the briefing idea a year ago and the governors liked it so much they asked for a similar fill-in on the nation's problems this year.

A White House statement said Eisenhower arranged the meeting "to bring the heads of the state governments into closer working relationship with the national administration and to draw upon their background of experience and regional knowledge in shaping federal programs."

The Eisenhowers entertained the governors and their wives at a White House dinner last night. Earlier, some of the governors held preliminary conferences on special problems. In one, 16 coal state governors considered the coal industry's present economic plight. The other brought together the governors of Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Colorado on dust storm and drought relief problems.

At the coal meeting, United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis said Russia could cripple this nation's oil facilities in a matter of days with submarines and bombers "if the Kremlin masters get impatient." In that event, he said, if the coal industry wasn't ready to take over fuel needs, "all Russia would have to do is call on us to surrender."

Lewis and other speakers, including Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania, said many of the coal industry's ills could be cured if the government would curb imports of residual oil, a refinery waste product used widely on the East Coast instead of coal.

Norway Convicts Soviet Citizen Of Espionage Try

VARDO, Norway, (AP)—A District Court convicted a Soviet citizen of Norwegian descent on charges of attempted espionage today. The court gave him a comparatively light sentence of one year in jail.

The defendant, Edvin A. B. Hansen, was found guilty in a two-day trial behind closed doors. He was charged with trying to spy on Norway for a foreign power and having entered Norway from neighboring Russia illegally on faked identity papers.

The Hansen trial was the first of a series of related espionage cases scheduled to be heard in Oslo and in the northern province of Finnmark, which borders on the Soviet Union. Five Norwegian spy suspects are slated for trial beginning May 5.

19 Streets Up For Repairs In Tentative List

Council Will Await Householders Stand On Resurfacing Plan

City Council and the administration Monday night drew up a list of 19 streets for blacktop resurfacing, but decided to withhold adoption a week to await reaction from the property-holders who would have to foot the bill through special assessments.

The list snowballed rapidly after Mayor E. Allan McKeever presented a proposal to surface six main thoroughfares at an estimated cost of $34,148.

Each ward councilman was permitted to add to the list the streets in his district that need resurfacing. That added 13 more thoroughfares for which the cost of the work has not been estimated.

Council agreed to meet in caucus session again Monday night at 7 to continue the discussion, expecting to sound out public opinion in the meantime.

Mayor McKeever proposed paving or resurfacing: Union St. from E. 2nd to E. 3rd St., Washington St. from E. 4th to E. 2nd, Jefferson St. from W. 4th to W. 6th, E. 4th from Walnut St. to Pennsylvania Ave., Monroe St. from W. 4th to W. 6th, and Avondale St. from Bradshaw Ave. to St. Clair Ave.

The city's share of the six-street program would be approximately $5,000, based on a requirement that it contribute 2 per cent of the overall figure, plus the cost of intersections, the mayor said.

Streets proposed by the ward councilmen were:

First Ward, Councilman A. Stanley Kidder: Virginia Ave., State St., St. George St. and 1st Ave.

Second Ward, Councilman William Y. Orr: Anderson Blvd., St. Clair Ave., Broadway, E. 4th St. and College St.

Third Ward, Councilman Wilbur J. Shaffer: Lincoln Ave., Grant St., W. 2nd St., W. 3rd St., Market St. and Washington St.

Councilman Robert G. Duncan of the Fourth Ward joined Councilman Shaffer in suggesting surfacing of parts of W. 4th and W. 3rd Sts. that lie in both the wards. Councilman George W. Hales, a member-at-large, added Minerva St. to the list.

By mutual consent, councilmen did not propose for improvement sections of state routes for which the city expects to seek Ohio Highway Department aid. That eliminated two major thoroughfares, Pennsylvania Ave. and Lisbon St.

In addition, the list did not include unsurfaced residential streets, with the understanding they should be paved initially at the property-holders' expense under a separate low-cost blacktop program sponsored by the administration.

"As long as the street department works 12 months a year on the unimproved streets, scraping and hauling ashes, we never will get anywhere," the mayor told Council.

"The people should be willing to help themselves by improving their streets with low-cost blacktop," he added. "That would free street department men, equipment and money to do constructive work and regular maintenance on the improved streets," he declared.

Council also gave informal approval to the mayor's proposal to seal-coat some existing blacktop streets at the city's expense. Seal coating is periodic maintenance to close cracks in the surface and prevent water damage. The mayor mentioned a list of four—Park Blvd., Rubicon St., Michigan Ave. and a section of Washington St.—estimated to cost a total of $4,491.

The streets committee was asked to make a citywide survey and report on other blacktop streets that need seal coating.

Council also discussed the mayor's proposal filed April 19 for a $39,000 blacktop resurfacing of St. Clair Ave. between Princeton St. and the city limits at Cain St. He proposed at that time the city would contribute $10,000 — about twice its normal share of the improvement — leaving $29,000 to be covered by special assessments against the property-owners.

Indicating he expects the city's share of the improvements to be financed via a bond issue, Mayor McKeever told Council the city's total bonded indebtedness was down to $174,000 in March, $220,000 under the statutory limit of $393,000.

Councilman Duncan commented the city would not have to contribute more than its normal share on the St. Clair improvement if the estimated assessment of $2 a front foot was boosted to $2.50.

"That way we would be treating all property-owners alike, whether they're on St. Clair Ave. or some other street," he commented.

Councilman Sample pointed out the city spent $5,000 to patch and seal-coat St. Clair Ave. two years ago "and we could spend the same amount this year and next year and still have nothing."

The discussion of St. Clair ended when Council turned to the balance of the street program.

YOUTH THREATENS TO JUMP. Leslie Liebman, 15, a lovelorn boy, stands on ledge of a Bronx, N. Y., apartment building roof and threatens to leap to the ground five stories below. For 45 minutes, Leslie balanced on the roof, declaring that a 13-year-old girl, Barbara Davidson, had spurned him. He stepped back to safety when a policeman, Sgt. Joseph Boller, 48, told him "women aren't worth a dime." Sgt. Boller later told newsmen he is a "happily married man" with a son and three grandchildren.

Two Motorists Fined; Others Forfeit Bonds

Two motorists were fined and two forfeited bonds on traffic violations in Municipal Court Monday.

Mary Faith McConnell, 1742 Wyoming Ave., was fined $10 and costs on a reckless operation charge and $10 for driving on a temporary permit without being accompanied by a licensed driver. She pleaded guilty to both.

Albert R. Chafin of Station A was fined $10 and costs after pleading guilty to a reckless operation charge.

Both were arrested at 12:50 a. m. Monday on Pennsylvania Ave. by Patrolmen Ira Cunningham and Robert McBane, police said.

Theodore R. White of Pittsburgh forfeited a $31 bond when he failed to appear for a hearing on a reckless operation charge. He was arrested Sunday at 5:35 p. m. Route 30 by the State Highway Patrol.

Joseph V. Bethel of Richmond forfeited a $10 bond on a charge of failing to observe a stop sign. He also was cited Sunday afternoon on Routes 7 and 30 by the State Highway Patrol.

Affair Honoring Rev. Thome Draws 200 At St. Ann's

More than 200 attended a reception Sunday afternoon at St. Ann's Catholic Church from 3 until 5 in honor of the Rev. Francis N. Thome, who has been pastor since March 27, 1953, and also marking the formal opening of the church recreation center.

The church basement has been remodeled and redecorated and new kitchen equipment installed under the supervision of St. Ann's Guild, the women's group and St. Ann's Service Club, which includes the men of the parish.

The guild arranged the Sunday event since there had been no affair for the Rev. Thome since his arrival.

Projects by groups of the church during the term of the pastor have included a new sanctuary carpet and a new organ.

The groups presented a desk set to Rev. Thome. Mrs. George Hargreaves, who was mistress of ceremonies, made the presentation.

Baton twirling and vocal and tap dance numbers were given by Kathy Todd, Patsy Siebert and Mary Ann Siddel of the Bulger Dance Studio under the direction of Janet Rickard. Each did two numbers.

Vocal selections by Mrs. Hargreaves included "Trees" and "Secret Love."

Lighted tapers and arrangements of white tulips, purple iris and snapdragons highlighted the buffet table. Mrs. Victor Ferrello and Mrs. Louis Yanni were social co-chairmen. Their committees included Mrs. Joseph DeSarro and Miss Catherine Franzetta.

The test is the climax of a four-year course of study in the public schools of the state. Students begin athe study of West Virginia background in the fifth grade.

Winners from throughout the state will be honored as "Knights of the Golden Horseshoe" by Dr. W. W. Trent, state school superintendent, in ceremonies May 14 at the capitol building in Charleston. The students will be presented Golden Horseshoe pins.

Other county winners are Mary Jane Stowe, Nancy Hutson and Kathryn Kako of Cove Junior High School in Weirton, and James Brown of Weirton Dunbar Junior High School.

Children's Ban In Taverns Set At Salineville

Council Sells Timber Rights And Allows Opening Of Street

SALINEVILLE — An ordinance banning minors from taverns was passed unanimously by Salineville Council Monday night.

Adopted under suspension of rules, the measure is effective immediately. It carries a fine up to $1,000.

Council also sold timber rights on the village dumping grounds for $150, gave the Manufacturers Light & Heat Co. permission to open E. Main St. and allowed Cle Hoey to break the curbing at his property on W. Main St. for a driveway.

K. E. Harsh and B. W. Cox of Salem of the gas company asked permission to open the street for installation of new service lines. Council stipulated the street must be returned to its original condition.

The cemetery committee reported a balance of $197.83 after the first quarter. Expenses during the three months amounted to $774.72, and receipts totaled $972.55, including a balance of $7.05 reported Jan. 1.

George Goppert, cemetery trustee, asked Council for additional funds and help during May. Goppert said the help is needed to get the cemetery in shape for Memorial Day. No action was taken on the request, with Council pointing out no funds are available.

Mayor Karl Lindner was instructed to check with the owners of the mineral rights of the property of the old Foster mine in the West End.

Lindner said several strip miners have showed an interest in the coal rights at the mine, which has been burning for years, if they are allowed to operate. An ordinance prohibits stripping within the village limits.

Council will consider amending the ordinance at a special meeting May 10.

At the same meeting, Council will also discuss insurance for members of the volunteer fire department.

Harold Merriner, secretary, asked Council to purchase the insurance.

Mayor Lindner reported on several complaints filed at earlier meetings.

Relative to the complaint that Charles Brown of Monroeville Hill had erected a garage too close to a fire plug, he said it was not the fault of the property owner. A check showed the plug is on Brown's lot.

The mayor said further checking is needed on a similar complaint of a fire plug near the property of Paul Anderson of Foundry Hill.

A complaint from Albert Beadnell of Grandview on street water running onto his property was turned over to the street committee, and a request from Buddy Oates of West End for an extension of a water service was referred to the Board of Public Affairs.

Mayor Lindner informed Council he has designated May 19-21 for the annual spring cleanup.

Ohio Film Censor Not Worried Over Latest Attack

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio film censor Clyde Hissong says he's not worried about the latest attack on the state's movie censorship.

"That's the Legislature's problem," Hissong said.

He referred to a suit brought by RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., of New York, the Independent Theater Owners of Ohio, and two theater operators.

The complainants say the censorship division has usurped the powers of the Legislature.

Yesterday Common Pleas Judge Ralph J. Bartlett refused to grant the film interests a temporary injunction blocking censorship by state officials. He set a hearing for Friday on a request for a permanent order against the division of film censorship.

Wellsville Man Hurt In Midland Rd. Mishap

A Wellsville man is in "fairly good" condition at City Hospital after suffering scalp lacerations in an accident early Monday on the East Liverpool-Midland Rd. in which his car was demolished.

Pennsylvania State Police at Rochester said Frederick Connor, 27, of 1107 Riverside Ave., was traveling west near Smiths Ferry when he apparently lost control of his car, rode the north berm of the highway some 150 feet and struck a telephone pole.

The car continued on after hitting the pole and finally lodged in a culvert, police said.

Damage to the Ford sedan was estimated at $1,100. Hospital authorities said Connor was admitted at 3:30 a. m.

250 At Fellowship Dinner

Salem Man Gets Top Scout Award

Calvin Filler of Salem, cubmaster of Pack 5 and a neighborhood Cub Scout commissioner, was presented the Silver Beaver Award —scouting's highest honor—at the annual leaders' fellowship dinner of the Columbiana Boy Scout Council Monday night in the Memorial Home of American Legion Post 4. Some 250 were present.

George Neiser, winner of the coveted award in 1948, cited Filler's outstanding service to scouting and the community in making the presentation.

Filler entered scouting in 1944 as an assistant cubmaster and advanced to the posts of cubmaster, assistant scoutmaster, scoutmaster and neighborhood commissioner.

As commissioner, he directs the monthly Cub Scout round-table in the Northern District. He is an elder of the First Christian Church of Salem, president of his district church Brotherhood, a Sunday School teacher and active in church youth groups.

A DRAFTSMAN, Filler is also an instructor in a vocational night school at Salem.

Francis H. Lang, president of the Columbiana Council, presented Council awards to four leaders in recognition of outstanding and lengthy service.

The four honored were the Rev. A. F. Haynes of the Christian Church and Eugene Seeley of Chester, James Pendry of Lisbon, and John Smith of Wellsville.

Rev. Haynes, a member of the committee of Troop 26, was honored for 10 years service. He is in his 39th year of scout work.

Pendry, a member of the camp development committee, is former Columbiana County conservation supervisor. Smith is cubmaster at the First Presbyterian Church in East Liverpool.

SEELEY, WHO entered scout work in 1925, has served as a cubmaster, neighborhood commissioner and district commissioner.

Training awards, based on completion of three-year training courses and "successful performance as a scout leader and service to boyhood," were presented to Robert L. Glenn, scoutmaster of Troop 42 of Glenmoor; Russell Nelson, assistant scoutmaster of Wellsville Troop 19, and Bruce Nichols, scoutmaster of East Palestine Troop 45.

Nichols was unable to attend and will receive his award later. The presentations were made by D. W. Bailey, chairman of the Council leadership training committee.

GLENN, AN assistant Explorer post adviser from 1950 to 1953, was named scoutmaster of Troop 42 in October 1953. He completed the leaders' training course last month.

BOY'S LOOKING AHEAD. One of the interested spectators at the Boy Scout presentation last night was Charles McLaren of Cub Pack 24, who can look ahead 20 or 30 years to winning the same Silver Beaver Award shown being presented here to Calvin Filler by George Neiser, 1948 recipient. Filler and Neiser are of Salem.

Nelson served two years as assistant scoutmaster of Troop 20, and with Troop 19 since May 1951. He completed the course in 1949.

C. Emory Miller, vice president of the Columbiana Council, presented roses and carnations to unit leaders, assistant leaders and their wives.

The guest speaker, Forrest H. Kirkpatrick, assistant to the president of the Wheeling Steel Corp., offered three suggestions for worthwhile living.

—:—

"WE CAN meet tomorrow best by learning to do well the things we ought to do today," he said, declaring there is no escape from the routine of daily life.

By doing things well, contributions are made to society, he explained.

"No man is indispensable, but all are valuable when they contribute to goodness and progress," he said. He cited Boy Scout work as an important contribution.

Kirkpatrick described scouting as "an investment in the future."

He said that "young fellows carrying the banner today will carry it tomorrow with the same sense of confidence."

Ernest Johns, holder of the Silver Beaver Award, outlined the requirements for earning the honor and explained its significance before the presentation was made to Filler.

—:—

HE SAID outstanding contributions must be made not only to the field of scouting, but also to church and community welfare.

A. V. Smith, another Silver Beaver Award winner, presented a corsage to Mrs. Filler during the awards ceremonies.

O. E. Hall, Council commissioner, was given a plaque in recognition of his lengthy affiliation. Mr. and Mrs. Hall are moving to Springfield because of his health.

A foreman at the Edwin M. Knowles Co. and a member of the Board of Education for 12 years, Hall received the Silver Beaver Award in 1950.

—:—

APPRECIATION was extended to Ross Ludwig, scout executive, and his assistant, Eugene Molenaur, field executive, by the toastmaster, Wayne Paulson of Columbiana.

Members of Newell Troop 29 performed during the opening ceremony. Order of the Arrow, national honor campers, closed the program with a caribou dance.

The Rev. Frederick Gillette of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church gave the invocation, Russell J. Barrow led the group singing, accompanied by Mrs. Barrow.

Lock-Picking Dog Toils Through 5 Kennel Doors

CLEVELAND (AP)—Buck, a lock-picking German shepherd dog, returned to his home in East Cleveland yesterday after working his way through five doors at a boarding kennel.

Mrs. William P. Carothers, his owner, was not surprised. She said Buck had often gone sightseeing by opening doors at their home with his teeth.

She and Mr. Carothers left Buck at Jensen's Green Road Animal Hospital April 19 when they flew to California for a short vacation.

Buck, who disapproved of incarceration, slid back the bolt on the door of his kennel, pushed through a swinging door and then went through three more doors with automatic locks.

He did all that between Saturday midnight and Sunday morning and was found by his owners yesterday in South Euclid, about three miles from the Carothers house.

Don't let an old-fashioned water heater
TIE YOU DOWN

If you still have to light your water heater every morning... wait for it to get hot... and then remember to shut it off — you're being tied down for no good reason.

Why not get a modern automatic electric water heater... and start saving time and steps. With an electric water heater working for you... you have only to turn the faucet anytime of the day or night and there's your hot water. Could any other way be easier... or more convenient?

And you're also assured of years and years of dependable, trouble-free service when you have an electric water heater. They come in many sizes and styles so you will find one that just fits your needs. Why not see your electric appliance dealer or plumber soon?

There's a size and type for every family.

Putting On The Pressure

There is nothing new about the power politics being witnessed in Indochina. If the Communists can destroy military resistance at Dien Bien Phu, or make it evident that the defenders are doomed, their bargaining position at Geneva will be improved.

Instead of being asked to explain what they are doing in Indochina, they will be able to announce what they intend to do next.

If the United States, France and Britain want a settlement in Indochina, short of disaster for the beleaguered defenders, they will have to meet the Communists' terms. These would include a clear right to possess certain Indochinese territory plus recognition of Communist China as a major power with diplomatic status equal to that of the Soviet Union.

The Communists know how to put on the pressure. They are worthy successors of all those who have had a hand in developing the technique, from ancient times down to the time of modern experts like Hitler.

The United States cannot match them. It cannot shoot first and talk later. It cannot threaten to go to war and make the threat stick.

It must wait for pressure to develop, then try to offset it with defensive measures. That was the origin of North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It was the origin of treaties to offset Communist aggression in Asia and the Pacific.

It was the origin of intervention in Korea. It was the origin of a milder kind of intervention in Indochina. When the Communists put on the pressure in Latin America, the United States will try to do something there, too. The United States is fire department in grass-fire season with a pyromaniac dropping lighted matches in every unguarded field.

The Communists are out-Hitlering Hitler. And the anti-Communists have inherited the handicap of Munich.

Mutual Briefing

The three-day conference of state and territorial governors with President Eisenhower and his staff this week is more than a one-way transmission of information from the White House to the occupants of the governors' mansions.

The chronic lack of first - hand information which has plagued presidents from Washington to Truman is being attacked directly by President Eisenhower.

He has taken special steps to bring him into contact with people who either are or should be familiar with the trend and tone of popular thought.

His conference with the governors is an extension of his practice of exchanging information with members of Congress and other citizens from many walks of life.

For the first time in many years there is no evidence that the White House has gone out of touch with the people, or is being fed only the kind of information satisfying to some shadowy "palace guard" with a monopoly on presidential attention.

The governors know their politics by first-hand acquaintance. Although the President, himself, is not a politician in the same sense as the men who hold down the governorships, he is in a position to learn more about politics from his vantage point in the White House than they are.

He can learn from them what he needs to know. They have become one of his sources of information while performing a task that has been made harder by the tendency to keep occupants of the White House in a kind of splendid isolation where they can learn only what someone chooses to tell them.

Lindsay Warren's Retirement

The comptroller general of the United States, Lindsay Warren, is retiring voluntarily at the end of this month. He was appointed in 1940 to a 15-year term but has decided of his own volition to get out of government service.

There never has been any taint of scandal on him or his office. His public career has consisted entirely of tireless efforts to put federal-spending on a businesslike accounting basis.

Mr. Warren estimates that in this role his General Accounting Office has caused approximately a billion dollars to be returned to the U.S. Treasury after it had been paid out illegally. He has performed the role, moreover, in an attitude of such scrupulous fairness that he has been one of the most respected men in federal service. No one has accused him of letting politics sway his judgment although he is a Democrat and was appointed by Franklin D. Roosevelt. Republicans respect him as much as Democrats respect him.

Mr. Warren is ill; that is why he is leaving the General Accounting Office. His salary is $17,000 a year, and he will continue to receive it as long as he lives as a token of gratitude for his services.

There is still such a thing in the United States as public service with satisfaction and honor.

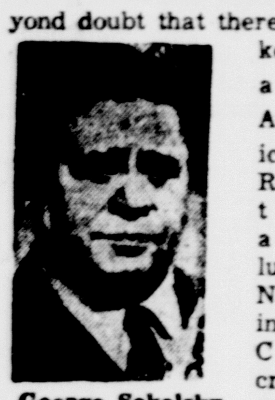
The U. S. Army Quartermaster Corps may have one of the strangest "hobbies" in this country today. At Philadelphia, the Corps maintains the world's largest collection of fungi known to attack military textiles and leather.

Behind The News

By George Sokolsky

The Veto On Communist China

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., the American ambassador to the United Nations, has made it clear beyond doubt that there are no monkey - shines about the American policy concerning Red China. At the Associated Press luncheon in New York, he indicted Red China of crimes and misdemeanors, succinctly and powerful stated:



George Sokolsky

"Because it has repeatedly expressed open contempt for the purposes and principles of the United Nations, and the judgements of the international community.

"Because it stands convicted by the United Nations as an aggressor in Korea, where it killed and wounded many thousands of American and other soldiers who were defending peace.

"Because it continues to support aggression in Indochina, by giving substantial aid and by furnishing advisers and technicians to the Vietminh forces.

"Because it occupied defenseless Tibet and seized control of its government and resources.

-:-

"BECAUSE IT sponsors guerrilla and subversive movements in Malaya and throughout the rest of Southeast Asia.

"Because it committed dreadful atrocities against Americans and others fighting for the United Nations in Korea and subjected prisoners to physical and mental cruelty in seeking to extort military secrets and confessions of alleged guilt.

"Because it still holds thirty-two American civilians under barberous conditions without published charges and subjects these innocent missionaries, journalists and business men to cruel and inhuman treatment.

"Because it willfully fabricated and publicized false evidence of spurious germ warfare charges designed to blacken the reputation of the United States and otherwise carries on a deliberate 'Hate America' propaganda campaign.

"Because it has executed millions of its captive subjects, and forced other millions into slave labor.

"Because it even stoops to an international extortion racket in squeezing millions of dollars from overseas Chinese who try to buy safety and protection for their relatives at home."

This bill of particulars, the most complete I have ever seen, is tantamount to announcing to the world that the United States will employ its veto in the Security Council if an attempt is made to smuggle Red China into the United Nations.

-:-

WERE RED CHINA admitted to the United Nations, public opinion in this country would beyond doubt demand that the United States withdraw from it. In many respects that would, at this stage of international relations, be a tragedy because, as Lodge pointed out, the alternative to talk is often war, and at this stage needs to be averted.

If the United Nations performs no other historic service than to delay World War III, that will be a task accomplished.

Undoubtedly a major impediment to any success of the United Nations is the extravagant propaganda that has been hurled at the world in favor of it. Too much was said for it; too much has been expected of it.

AFTER ALL, as Henry Cabot Lodge said:

"Now, the wars that don't happen are not dramatic. But there is real satisfaction in working in a place where you feel that sometimes you have helped prevent fighting and bloodshed even if it requires some verbal toe dancing and walking on eggs and what, to most of us, appears to be pettifogging. There are some circumstances in international affairs when the best thing to do is to stall for time and give people a chance to cool off. . ."

At most, the United Nations should be a parliament of nations, a meeting place, a vent for outbursts of anger, a bargaining counter for compromises.

If the United Nations limited itself to this type of activity and gave up aspirations for world government, it would accomplish more without arousing so much suspicion, particularly among Americans who are not anxious to be governed by anyone but themselves.

Wire-Tap Evidence

By Robert K. Walsh

A federal court decision bearing on the monitored telephone issue in the McCarthy-Army hearings held that such intercepted information can legally be admitted at a trial with the consent of only one of the parties.

This decision in a narcotics case was handed down several months ago by Judge Holtzoff in U. S. District Court for the District of Columbia. So far as available court records indicated, Judge Holtzoff's ruling has not been carried to the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia or to the Supreme Court.

While not an exact parallel, the District Court case covered some of the same basic questions involved in the latest legal wrangle at hearings of the Senate investigations subcommittee.

-:-

THE CASE was that of United States vs. Sullivan. It involved a District of Columbia resident charged with violation of the narcotics act. He was convicted and sentenced to prison by Judge Holtzoff.

In that case, according to the available record, a federal narcotics agent arranged with an informer to telephone the defendant for purchase of narcotics. The agent listened in on the telephone conversation.

At the trial, the defendant's attorney objected that disclosure of this monitored telephone conversation was not admissible under the Federal Communications Act. Judge Holtzoff ruled that in this instance it could be admitted.

He held that the statute did not apply in the case of such a conversation taken down with the knowledge and consent of one of the parties. He interpreted the statute as banning disclosure of such monitored conversations only when taken without the knowledge or consent of both parties.

THE PROBLEM of using monitored telephone conversations is regarded as having similar angles in the McCarthy-Army controversy because it involves these questions:

May transcriptions of a telephone conversation taken by a third party on the line be used in evidence on order of a congressional investigating committee? And, must both parties to the conversation give their permission?

Some legal authorities here looked ahead to the possibility that developments from the Senate subcommittee hearings conceivably could lead to federal court proceedings. This would bring into sharper focus the question as to whether evidence obtained by monitoring telephone conversations would be admitted at a judicial trial. The situation accordingly has centered attention on Judge Holtzoff's decision in United States vs. Sullivan.

IN ANY EVENT, the argument in the McCarthy-Army hearing centers on Section 605 of Title 47 of the United States Code. The passage—long even for legal literature—is as follows:

"No person receiving or assisting in receiving, or transmitting, or assisting in transmitting, any interstate or foreign communication by wire or radio shall divulge or publish the existence, contents, substance, purport, effect, or meaning thereof, except through authorized channels of transmission or reception, to any person other than the addressee, his agent, or attorney, or to a person employed or authorized to forward such communiication to its destination, or to proper accounting or distributing offices of the various communicating centers over which the communication may be passed, or to the master of a ship under whom he is serving or in response to a subpoena issued by a court of competent jurisdiction, or on demand of other lawful authorities; and no person not being authorized by the sender shall intercept any communication and divulge or publish the existence, contents, substance, purport, effect, or meaning of such intercepted communication to any person; and no person not being entitled thereto shall receive or assist in receiving any interstate or foreign communication by wire or radio and use the same or any information there in contained for his own benefit or for the benefit of another not entitled thereto; and no person having received such intercepted communication or having become acquainted with the content, substance, purport, effects, or meaning of the same or any part thereof, knowing that such information was so obtained, shall divulge or publish the existance, content, substance, purport, effect, or meaning of the same or any part thereof, or use the same or any information therein contained for his own benefit or for the benefit or another not entitled thereto: provided that this section shall not apply to the receiving, divulging, publishing, or utilizing the contents of any radio communication broadcast, or transmitted by amateurs or others for the use of the general public or relating to ships in distress."

That Forward Look

High Note Of Optimism At Geneva

By David Lawrence

GENEVA

This could be the beginning of the "negotiated peace" which the Soviet government has been insisting upon and which the Western World has been reluctant to accept because of a deep-seated distrust of Soviet pledges.

This could also be the beginning of the end of international conferences between the Communists and the free governments, for, if this one collapses, there may not be another for years to come.

Because such grave consequences are involved, neither side will wish to do anything that would fix upon it responsibility for the failure of the conference. Under such circumstances, the chances of something tangible and concrete coming out of the Geneva Conference are better than even.

This may sound like optimism unwarranted in the face of the record since 1945, but diplomacy is always full of surprises — especially when it has reached the end of its rope.

It is not necessary for the sessions to cover all the items at issue or to make a settlement on any substantial number of them for it to be pronounced a success in terms of international conferences. It can be a success if only one major issue is resolved, such as the ending of aggression in Asia in return for a new setup for peace in Europe.

TO UNDERSTAND the reasoning of the Soviets at this conference, it is necessary to go back to June 1951, when Jacob Malik made his speech at the United Nations offering the olive branch to the West. At that time inspired dispatches came out of Moscow indicating that what the Soviet government wanted was a "package" settlement and that Asian questions were felt to be closely interrelated with European issues.

The Berlin Conference held earlier this year was an attempt to tackle European problems and it wound up with the realistic decision that nothing could be done about a European settlement until something was done simultaneously about an Asian settlement.

All this is but another way of saying that the peace ofthe world is not regional or sectional but global and hence, if there is to be an era of peace, every important cause of anxiety must be tackled, if not in this conference, then in those conferences which inevitably must come after this one if there is the slightest evidence of even a partial success here.

What, it might be asked, would be the motivating reason for Soviet Russia to give ground since there is no military pressure at the moment powerful enough to threaten a victory of arms and since the Western world has been fought to a stalemate in Korea and French opinion veers toward another stalemate in Indochina?

There is only one pressure on the men in the Kremlin — the feat that a worsened situation in the world could lead to the downfall of the Moscow regime, especially as the internal economic situation would then grow more dangerous.

EVERY BIT of information coming out of Soviet Russia indicates that no warlike sentiment or passion exists there and that a third World War could loosen the bonds between the people and the government, just as it did when a separate peace with Germany was negotiated by the revolutionary governments of Kerensky in the middle of World War I.

This conference at Geneva is probably the most important since the Versailles conference of 1919—which, incidentally, this correspondent reported. Although those meetings lasted over a period of several months, there were less than half a dozen sessions at which all the delegates faced each other in actual conference. The real work was done in informal meetings of four men — the heads of the Allied governments — and the decisions were then submitted to the enemy for approval.

While the circumstances of victor vs. loser are absent now, the technique here may be expected to be the same. Unless in the first two or three weeks there are indications informally given to the top ministers of Britain and France and the United States that something tangible can be negotiated, the conference will drag on and the principals, like Secretary Dulles and Anthony Eden, will go back home leaving deputies to carry on indefinitely.

IT IS PRECISELY because the Communist diplomats know there is a sort of "now or never" urgency about this conference that it may be confidently assumed that the Russians will not let the Geneva meeting collapse and thus permit the whole world to look upon the Communists as obstructionists.

There will be, for propaganda purposes, the usual public statements at first with impossible demands. In the privacy of informal meetings between the heads of foreign offices, the real negotiations will proceed as the effort is made to find out whether or not there is a sound basis of compromise on a plan which involves mutual concessions. To be acceptable, there would have to be a dramatic manifestation of sincerity accompanied by a formula for guaranteeing the pledges given.

The fundamental question here is how to get a guarantee of good faith, but nevertheless it would be well for observers generally not to write off this conference at its beginning. It could bring a surprise.

Thoughts While Shaving

By Truman Twill

Most women reach the conclusion sooner or later that men are much put upon by the necessity of shaving off their whiskers.

In my case, so much sympathy has been wasted on this score that it has become embarrassing. You would think it was a handicap that went with being of the male gender or something.

In fact, the lady of the house recently was so gripped with pure pity she came trotting home with the latest model of one of those contraptions which snip off whiskers electrically. Over a period of years this same thing has happened several times before.

Each time, the contraption was used gratefully until something went awry with its innards. Then, as is the case with many persons who are given fancy lighters as an improvement over matches, there was a return to the shaving simplicities; i.e., a razor blade and something to lubricate its action.

It is not the idea here to knock anybody's product. Obviously, the people who make the electrical contraptions are doing all right. The things are being sold right and left. But just as obviously the people who make razor blades and lubricating compounds are doing all right, too.

They have the basic psychology of the shaving routine working in their favor, and since this is something no woman is likely to understand, this bares the secret.

A man needs an excuse to fuss with his face. He does not primp in public. He carries no mirror in his purse to gaze into a half dozen times a day — no repair kit to touch up his coloring or take the patina off his puss.

The only chance he ever has to feel his features, admire their beauty of line and be thrilled by the strength of character they reflect is while he is shaving.

That's why the razor - blade and lubricating - compound people will continue to do all right, along with the electrical contraption crowd.

Not only New Yorkers but theatergoers from all over the country are bending an ear to the details of that order requiring theaters to display a big chart showing the location of any seats sold. Coal State Chiefs Meet

Seek Method To Halt Industry's Slump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coal state governors today mapped another discussion on how to help the coal industry get out of its doldrums.

Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania, who initiated yesterday's meeting, said the time and place of the follow-up meeting were uncertain.

He said it would be held today or tomorrow, depending upon the schedule of the governors in Washington at the invitation of President Eisenhower for a briefing on national and international problems.

At the conclusion of yesterday's meeting, the governors authorized Fine to appoint a committee to confer further with management, labor and coal state leaders and to make recommendations.

Fine said he probably will name the committee members at the next meeting and that steps might be taken then to carry out his recommendation that a permanent governors' committee on the domestic fuels industry be set up.

Yesterday, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, said a strong coal industry was vital to the nation's peacetime and wartime future, and served notice that he would not consider any wage cut for union workers in the bituminous and anthracite industries.

Lewis said a wage reduction was not the answer to the industry's plight, and added:

"There isn't going to be any negotiated wage decrease in the coal industry, bituminous or anthracite."

Fine, Tom Pickett, executive vice-president of the National Coal Assn., and Frank W. Earnest Jr., president of the Anthracite Institute, stressed the importance of coal to the nation's economy and defense and urged a halt to the unlimited importation of residual oil.

They, like Lewis, said this nation would be vulnerable to defeat at the hands of an enemy if it came to rely so much on oil, especially imports, that the coal industry was forgotten. Coal, they said, was a life saver in World War II and would be again in a national emergency.

Firemen Take Hose From Smouldering Mine

Wellsville firemen removed about 1,400 feet of hose Monday from the McLain Fire Brick Co. clay mine at the Buckeye Works, which still is smouldering after fire last December.

A company official said the area still burning, about 1,000 feet inside the mine, will be sealed off and that workmen will by-pass it in digging clay.

Firemen took the hose to the mine 10 days ago when it was opened after having been sealed since January. When it was found to be still burning, company workmen made an attempt to put it out but without success. The company said it is hoping "it will just give up."

Volunteer firemen washed the 30 lengths of hose of clay and mud before storing it.

Portrait Of A Lady

Mamie, Ike Move Again; This Time To France

(Following is the twenty-second in a series condensing the forthcoming book, "Mamie Doud Eisenhower: Portrait of a First Lady", by Dorothy Brandon.)

By DOROTHY BRANDON

After their exciting day and evening in Gettysburg, Pa., looking at a farm, Gen. and Mrs. Eisenhower did not go back for a second look in the morning.

They had decided to buy. They drove back to New York and completed the sale through an attorney.

They paid $24,000 for the land and buildings and $16,000 for the machinery and livestock.

The deed was registered in Mrs. Eisenhower's name, the general maintaining that only the family's financial "wizard" could manage her budget so as to create the home of her dreams—the home that had taken 34 years to materialize.

Relying on his wife's judgment throughout the entire transaction, the general waited until several week's after the farm's tranfer before first setting foot on the property. It was then November.

Mrs. Eisenhower was at the point of consulting an architect and the general was gathering information on dairy cattle. Happily they were looking forward to spring week ends in their home, when fate once more intervened.

In December 1950, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — the free world's response to the Russian menace — chose Gen. Eisenhower to be Supreme Commander of Allied Powers in Europe.

From headquarters to be located in a suburb of Paris, he would range out over free Europe. It would be a long and difficult assignment, in many respects as taxing on mind and body as the war years. At least, this time, he would not be separated from his wife. NATO was prepared to provide a spacious furnished house for Gen. and Mrs. Eisenhower, either in Paris or a suburb.

One more house—still not her own. Life seemed to be always one more strange house. The real wrench would be years of separation from John, Barbara and the children; there was precious little chance that an Army transfer would uproot her son and his family from Fort Benning for another European assignment—unless his father went through channels. But that was something he'd never do. John was on his own, and he was as insistent as the general on a "hands-off" policy.

Sailing on a February midnight in the liner Queen Elizabeth, Gen. and Mrs. Eisenhower could barely move about in their suite for the piles of bon voyage gifts. It had been a big and noisy send-off, so far as friends and family were concerned, but SHAPE's Supreme Commander was in a serious mood.

Huddling over an electric heater in the splendor of her six-room suite at the Trianon Palace Hotel in Versailles, Mrs. Eisenhower reflected on northern Europe's March and April wetness.

She blamed her discomfort on being a "steam-heated American; we can't adjust to a room where the thermometer doesn't register up in the 70's unless we wear woolen underthings."

Her selection of Chateau Villeneuve l'Etang in the small 13th-century village of Marnesse la Coquette, half way between Paris and Versailles, had not meant immediate occupancy of the picturesque two-storied country house that curved around a small artificial lake set in acres of quiet park.

The French government, anxious to transform the old chateau, used as a residence by Napoleon III and occupied later by Louis Pasteur, had loosed fourteen of the nation's leading decorators on it, to bring the many-windowed, wide rooms up to date.

The decorators had trouble coming to an agreement; one faction demanded modern Impressionism throughout the house, the other side insisted on traditional tapestry, brocade and gold.

While the argument was raging Mrs. Eisenhower (who had very positive ideas of her own that were neither Impressionistic nor traditional) remained neutral. The experts compromised at last; the rooms would combine the traditional and the modern.

Speaking through an interpreter, Mrs. Eisenhower explained tactfully that so long as her wishes were followed in her bedroom, the decorators could have carte blanche for the rest of the house.

She requested green walls with a faint overtone of blue; gladiolus-pink draperies; a slipper chair covered with gold-hued fabric; and lighter pink hangings in the bathroom. So that there would be no mistaking the keynote colors, she produced a piece of plywood, post-card size, painted the shade of green to be matched; also she showed them several pink-and-gold swatches of drapery material.

The color guide was battered and cracked from long use; it had been her "traveling companion" many years, brought out for comparison whenever a new bedroom was to be decorated.

Official and personal invitations bulked up her mail, but she and the general sent regrets to all but a handful. "We were not in France for social life," she explained.

"Ike couldn't possibly have worked so hard and gone out evenings." Often they had SHAPE people in for dinner family style, and cards afterward, with an occasional formal affair for diplomatic and military figures.

Mrs. Eisenhower might not have been in France, so far as the French public was concerned. She did no shopping in Paris, attended no big functions such as an opera gala, or exhibition openings, nor was she an honor guest at luncheons or teas.

But her days were anything but empty. There was always a stack of mail to be answered and household accounts required tallying, along with the run-of-the-mill work like menu planning and food ordering.

In his firm-handed attempt to rebuild the defense of Europe through NATO, Gen. Eisenhower traveled over the Continent, and to Great Britain many times, by air.

His new plane, a Constellation named "Columbine" for Colorado's state flower, was "big and comfortable as a Pullman" in the opinion of Mrs. Doud, who was still busy propagandizing flying to her daughter. When a flight was in prospect for Frankfort, Amsterdam and Stockholm, Mrs. Eisenhower agreed to go, provided her mother and sister made the trip.

The Columbine put down at Amsterdam's Schipol Airport by prearrangement, so that the Netherlands Army could welcome Gen. Eisenhower officially. The state dinner was anything but an ordeal. Mrs. Eisenhower, who had entertained Prince Bernhard, Queen Juliana's consort, in New York, and liked his stimulating wit and unpretentious manner, found him just as delightful in the palace surroundings.

The queen joined in her husband's hearty welcome, and after dinner, when the women gathered for coffee, as knowledgeable about contemporary America as if she had just returned from a visit, the Queen discussed the variation in rules for canasta.

Mrs. Doud's Swedish heritage—she was born Elvira Carlson, not many years after her father settled in Boone, Iowa—asserted itself during a lively musical interlude that followed a royal dinner in Stockholm. Seated at a small table, with a daughter on each side, Mrs. Doud gave way to Gen. Eisenhower's urging and started singing Swedish folk songs. Before Mamie and "Ike" knew what was happening, they were singing, too.

How Can I? ? ?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I prevent staining the fingers and clothes when using the bluing bottle?

A. The empty hair tonic bottle which has the top that permits only a few drops to come out at a time will make an excellent receptacle for bluing, and it will avoid the trouble of staining the hands.

Q. How can I remove vegetable stains from my hands, and soften and whiten the skin?

A. Rub over the hands with the skins of used lemons. This will remove all stains and restore the hands to a soft, white condition.

Q. How can I remove kerosene stains from carpets?

A. By sprinkling buckwheat flour over them; let stand awhile, then sweep up carefully; repeat, if necessary.

Presentation At Kent State

Cups Awarded For School Papers

East Liverpool High School was awarded the Kent Stater cup for the best mineographed paper, the Keramos Echo, for schools with an enrollment of over 500, at the annual meeting of the Northeastern Ohio Scholastic Press Association Saturday at Kent.

The Red Bird, official publication of Loudonville High School, was awarded the East Liverpool Review trophy for the best paper in schools with an enrollment of less than 500.

Shown above is William Maloney of East Liverpool holding the Kent Stater cup, and Miss Nancy Long the Review plaque as Ira Sayre, East Liverpool faculty adviser, and Miss Marjorie Robinson, Loudonville teacher, look on.

Some 860 students, representing 66 high school papers in Northeastern Ohio, attended the morning and afternoon sessions. One of the highlights was an interview by feature writers with Chuck Noll, guard on the Cleveland Browns.

Principal speaker was Robert Dix, publisher of the Kent Courier-Tribune and the Ravenna Record, who told of his experiences in a recent trip of newspaper men and women in Russia.

Headed by Ira Sayre, journalism teacher and faculty manager of the Keramos Echo, students making the trip included Karole Kapp, Norma Shaw, Elaine Rayle, Barbara Simcox, William Fisher, William Hayes, Harry Williams and Maloney.

Hearing

Welch be called upon to produce the photographer who took the picture and show where it was altered.

Jenkins cut off McCarthy, saying he was not making a proper point of order, but was making a statement of fact.

McCarthy insisted he had the right to point out wherein Welch was "lying" about the picture.

After some more wrangling, Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) took up the questioning of Stevens.

The row over the photograph launched the fourth day of the nationally-televised hearings which brought another capacity crowd to the marble-pillared Senate caucus room.

With little that was new developed in the first three days, McCarthy had injected something of a mystery element overnight by promising, before the hearings close, to produce "information of tremendous importance" from at least one, and possibly three witnesses. He declined to name them.

Chairman Mundt, commenting on McCarthy's promise, told reporters: "There will be no surprise witnesses before this committee."

By this, Mundt meant no witness would be permitted to take the stand without the committee's being advised in advance of the nature of the prospective testimony.

Yesterday's session broke up shortly after an angry exchange between McCarthy and Sen. McClellan of Arkansas, senior Democrat on the investigations subcommittee, which McCarthy normally heads. He has stepped off as a member for this inquiry.

This came when McClellan said Stevens had authority to overrule his subordinates and give Schine an Army commission and thus grant McCarthy and his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, "what they were seeking." Stevens said he had the authority but never would issue such a commission to anyone.

McCarthy broke in to say he thought McClellan had implied that McCarthy "could be bought off." Any such implication, he shouted, was "completely improper and unfair."

There was applause from spectators as the Wisconsin senator declared:

"There is no evidence that this chairman (McCarthy) ever could have been bought off at any hearing and never will be bought off at any hearing."

Mundt, who took over from McCarthy for this inquiry, said demonstrating spectators would be escorted out by police in the future.

Stevens, in a full day in the witness chair yesterday, also:

1. Acknowledged he once suggested that McCarthy suspend hearings on alleged subversion at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., let the Army take over, and then step back in if he was not satisfied. Stevens said he did not contemplate that the McCarthy inquiry would be completely halted.

2. Denounced as an "unequivocal lie" statements by McCarthy and Cohn that he once suggested they shift their attention to the Navy or the Air Force.

3. Said McCarthy never threatened him if favors for Schine were not forthcoming. Nor did Cohn ever voice threats to him personally, the secretary said.

McCarthy and Cohn maneuvered in questioning Stevens to try to establish Francis P. Carr, a principal in the case, as an unbiased witness.

As McCarthy's chief of staff, Carr is the author of a half dozen memoranda the Wisconsin senator made public March 12 to support his charge that Stevens and his aides tried to "blackmail" the group into dropping its Army investigation.

One of these, dated Dec. 9, said, "I am getting fed up with the way the Army is trying to use Schine as a hostage to pressure us to stop our hearings on the Army."

McCarthy and Cohn tried to wring from Stevens a concession that Carr didn't take part in alleged efforts to get favored treatment for Schine—the main charge in the Army officials' case.

Mundt finally instructed Stevens to ponder the Carr matter overnight and "either particularlize the charge or withdraw it against Carr."

"I am certainly going to search my mind and try to do that," Stevens said.

McCarthy said in an interview he was interested in "clearing Carr's name," and he added:

"If these charges are not true, then this is one of the most vicious smears that could be made against a man."

McCarthy described the pudgy Carr at yesterday's hearing as "a young man with a record of 10 years with the FBI, head of their subversive squad (in New York City)."

Calling Stevens "Bob" as befitted the amicable social relations the secretary previously testified he had maintained with McCarthy, the Wisconsin senator demanded that Stevens relate anything Carr had said at a Stevens-Cohn-Carr meeting last Oct. 2.

Stevens replied that Carr had participated "in a minor or lesser way" but he said he couldn't recall anything Carr said.

This exchange followed:

McCarthy—Look, Bob, you are accusing Frank Carr of something very serious.

Stevens—That is right.

McCarthy—I think it is only fair to ask of you to tell us what Frank Carr did that was improper.

Stevens—Well.

McCarthy—What you are doing here, Bob, you are asking a young man be discharged from his job because of improper conduct. And you can't tell us what it is.

Stevens—Well, senator, the Department of the Army has put in this bill of particulars and I think there will be other material that will come before the committee that will bear on this.

Later Sen. Symington (D-Mo) told Stevens, "I am not happy with your replies about Carr."

If the Army officials' charges against Carr were withdrawn, McCarthy's staff chief would have the status of an outside witness and not a "principal," as are McCarthy and Cohn.

It was under questioning by Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel to the subcommittee, that Stevens said McCarthy and Cohn had not threatened him.

This was the exchange:

Jenkins—Did Sen. McCarthy ever at any time threaten you in case you did not do things for Schine?

Stevens—No.

Jenkins—Did he ever use any vituperative language?

Stevens—No.

Jenkins—Did Mr. Cohn ever at any time make any threats against you if you did not do the things for Schine that he asked you to do?

Stevens—According to my information, he made some threats against the Army.

Jenkins—But did he personally ever make any threats to you?

Stevens—No.

Jenkins described as one of these purported "threats against the Army" a "declaration of war" Stevens said Cohn made when the secretary barred him from visiting a secret laboratory at Ft. Monmouth.

Speaking of the "threats," Jenkins asked whether Stevens had reported them to Secretary of Defense Wilson or "to the commander in chief of the Army—to the President?"

"No, sir," Stevens replied.

Stevens said in response to questions by Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) that he never had a request from any other senator for a direct Army commission for an individual.

Jenkins said a serious charge had been made against Stevens:

"That is, from time to time you offered up a bigger bait even than David Schine to this committee to let you alone, to wit : . . it alleged that you tried to divert this committee from the Army to the Air Force or the Navy. What do you say about that charge?

"I say it is an unequivocal lie," Stevens replied.

"Did you ever intimate or suggest or did your attorney, Mr. (John G.) Adams, to your knowledge ever suggest, that there was a ripe, juicy field in other departments of the Army, or in the Air Force or in the Navy for investigation?" Jenkins asked.

"Never," Stevens replied.

There was a warm exchange when Jenkings brought up McCarthy's charge that Stevens was using Schine as "a hostage" while dickering with the subcommittee.

"Now, Mr. Secretary, that was not a part of your pattern to hold this boy Schine as a sort of a hostage, and use him as a bait for the purpose of abating this investigation, was it?" Jenkins asked.

"Certainly not; and if he was a hostage, so are hundreds of thousands if not millions of young Americans hostages when they are doing their duty in the service of their country," Stevens replied.

into surplus funds to pay regular dividends.

Asked why the utility has offered to furnish gas for city buildings at a rate of 35 cents, an increase of 10 cents over the former rate, Stephan said "it is a gesture in recognition of their powers."

"You apparently favor the city because it can favor you," James Fortiner said. "Don't you believe we favor you when we teach children to cook with gas? Your main source of revenue is from the use of domestic gas."

"We have to live with the people, too," Sanford commented.

Stephan countered, "Do you believe the people should pay more because the schools are paying less?"

Asked by Supt. Ralph W. Betts if the board would have been better off if the company had negotiated for a franchise with the city, Stephan said, "Yes, but the citizens might be worse off."

He said the company is entitled to a certain amount of money from East Liverpool and that it must get it somewhere.

Leo Lawrence commented, "The company is entitled to a fair return, but nothing like this. It's out of reason!"

"If the PUC grants this increase, you are going a long way toward pricing yourself out of business," he warned.

Fortiner pointed out the board must decide within a few months on the type of heating system for the West End consolidated school.

"I feel we should keep gas out of the building," he declared.

Stephan replied, "We are not trying to discourage business and we still hope we will be competitive with other types of fuel."

Lowe said the board will look into the feasability of using oil in the proposed West End school.

The board voted Feb. 23 to support the fight of city and village solicitors in four Ohio counties and then drafted a resolution asking for a preferential rate at its meeting March 22.

In addition to the rate increase in Ohio, Manufacturers also has requested boosts in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The Russians have taken the position this wording makes the Indochina talks a "Big Five" conference with Peiping a sponsor, entitled to a part in choosing the other participants. The United States has flatly rejected this, insisting that only the Big Four are the sponsors.

The Western powers have not disclosed what countries they are willing to seat at the Indochina talks beyond the three French-sponsored associated states there—Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia. It was not known whether they would agree to negotiate directly with representatives of the Communist-controlled Vietminh rebels.

The Western and Communist delegates apparently were in agreement that no formal discussions would begin on Indochina until after Korean issues are disposed of.

No objections were raised at yesterday's conference start, and a Russian spokesman said, "it is the custom of international meetings that one question is discussed until it is finished and then one passes on to the next.

Molotov was chairman of the conference session this afternoon under the three-man daily rotation plan agreed to yesterday. Eden and Thailand's foreign minister, Prince Wan Waithayakon, will alternate with the Russian in the chair. The delegates also agreed yesterday the sessions would be closed, with individual delegations holding press briefings later as they desired.

South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai and his North Korean opposite number, Nam Il, were to lead off the Korean debate today with policy declarations.

Reds Reply To U.S. Atomic Pool Plan

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Russia replied today to American proposals on President Eisenhower's plan for an atomic pool for peaceful purposes.

The content of the Soviet reply was not disclosed, but informed sources indicated no important progress had been made in the exchange.

The note was handed to U. S. Secretary of State Dulles by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in a half-hour conference at which the two statesmen also discussed problems related to the current Geneva conference on Far Eastern issues.

The United States has 45 million passenger cars and 9,147,000 trucks in use today compared to 15¼ million and 2,125,000 respectively in 1924.

Bus Drivers Strike, Toledo Urges Car Pools

TOLEDO, Ohio, (AP)—Some 435 members of the AFL Bus Drivers Union struck Toledo's Community Traction Co. today, leaving this city of 320,000 without public transportation.

Mayor Ollie Czelusta and City Manager Arnold Finch immediately urged residents to form car pools.

In dispute was the company's refusal to abide by a wage increase award made April 9 by an arbitration board.

West Virginia Filing To End In Five Days

4 Of 6 Members Of House Unopposed For Renomination

CHARLESTON (AP) — As the line-up stands five days from the filing deadline, four of West Virginia's six members of the House of Representatives have no opposition for renomination.

Actually, one of the four unopposed congressmen has not yet filed as a candidate himself, but is regarded as certain to do so. He is the Fourth District's Rep. Will E. Neal, the lone Republican in the state's congressional delegation.

Unopposed for Democratic renomination are Rep. Harley O. Staggers in the Second, Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey in the Third, and Rep. Robert C. Byrd in the Sixth.

For those three and Neal, the Aug. 3 primary will just be batting practice for the Nov. 2 general election, unless opponents step forth between now and the deadline at midnight Saturday.

Rep. Robert H. Hollohan and Rep. Elizabeth Kee have primary opposition.

Former Rep. Robert L. Ramsay of Wellsburg, beaten by Mollohan in the 1952 Democratic primary, will run against Mollohan again in the First. High school principal Irvin S. Maddy of Hinton is opposing Mrs. Kee for the Sixth District Democratic nomination.

Three Republican candidates besides incumbent Neal so far are unopposed. They are state legislator Arch A. Moore, Jr., of Moundsville in the First, 27-year-old Fred O. Blue of Princeton in the Fifth, and John M. Orth of Dunbar in the Sixth.

There are contests for the Republican nominations in the Second and third Districts.

Sparks of intraparty friction have been generated by the two-way contest in the Second, composed of 15 Northeastern West Virginia and Eastern Panhandle counties.

Staggers' margin there in 1952 was the narrowest among the five districts won by Democrats. Republicans view the Second as their most promising battleground among those five in 1954.

The candidates are Mrs. Davis Elkins of Morgantown and Washington, wife of a former U. S. Senator, and Albert M. Morgan of Morgantown. Monongalia County prosecutor and son of a former governor.

Morgan won the endorsement of a majority of the district's county Republican chairmen, who met to settle on a candidate. The entrance of Mrs. Elkins angered State GOP Chairman James O. Lakin, the the two have exchanged heated statements in the newspapers.

Joseph B. Lightburn of Jane Lew and Frank T. Amos of Elizabeth already have filed for the Republican nomination for Bailey's Third District seat.

A better known Republican, Myron R. Rusty Renick of Fayetteville, undoubtedly will give the Third a three-man contest before the week is out. The former national vice-commander of the American Legion has announced his intention of filing.

Moore and Blue seem likely to remain unopposed in their districts. The Fifth, Blue's district, has a heavily Democratic registration which hardly encourages multiple entries in the Republican primary.

In the Sixth, runner-up only to the Fifh in the size of the Democratic majority two years ago, the district Republican organization still is trying to find someone to make it a contest with Orth. To date, the effort has been unsuccessful.

Orth, a lawyer, was left as the Sixth's only GOP candidate when Elizabeth V. Hallanan of Charleston lowered her sights and filed for the state House of Delegates instead of the House of Representatives.

Miss Hallanan, lawyer daughter of GOP National Committeeman Walter S. Hallanan, had announced earlier that she would file for Congress.

The office of Secretary of State D. Pitt O'Brien in the state capitol will remain open until midnight Saturday to receive the certificates and $125 filing fees of any 11th hour candidates.

Certificates postmarked any time before midnight Saturday also will be accepted.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—A once ugly duckling is taking the first bows of this tardily opening Great Lakes iron ore shipping season—and may be taking the last ones years hence.

The first cargo pushing toward the Eastern steel mills today is a load of taconite—once despised poor relation of the rich Mesabi iron range.

But you can make steel from taconite—even if it costs more to extract its iron. And this year the iron and steel industry's closest attention—measured by new investment dollars—may be paid to taconite, although its share in steel making may be small for some time.

The chance for another top year for the traditional iron ore cargoes on the lake is fairly slim right now. Steel companies with offices here say that some marginal iron mines in the Mesabi range in northern Minnesota may not open at all this spring.

And over the horizon of tomorrow are pointing the prows of iron-ore-laden craft from Labrador and from Venezuela to challenge the long reign of the Mesabi.

Taconite is a hard red rock with iron in it. But the iron has been so hard to pry loose that its mother rock had little appeal to the iron and steel masters so long as the Mesabi range could be tapped easily for its huge store of rich, freely handled iron ore.

From the Mesabi has come most of the nation's iron for generations. And there's lots more there to be mined and shipped down the lakes to the steel mills that flourish near the coal fields. Steel making requires both iron and coal and must be brought together cheaply.

But two world wars with their huge demands for iron and steel have shown the nation that even the Mesabi iron range isn't inexhaustible. And the iron industry has looked two ways: to Venezuela, Liberia and Labrador, where it found new iron deposits; and to Minnesota's plentiful but stubborn taconite.

The industry has finally developed a process for crushing the hard rock and extracting the iron ore which it says is economical. Steel companies, with an eye on the day when taconite could be their chief sources, particularly in wartime, are investing millions in developing the process and building the plants needed. The first 18,000-ton shipment of taconite is now on its way to the iron foundries. Taconite is shipped in the form of small pellets of very high-grade ore, extracted in the Minnesota concentration plants from the low-grade rock ore.

The Great Lakes ore fleet carried a record 93 million tons of Mesabi ore last year. This year a total of 73 million tons is estimated. Operating well below capacity steel mills' appetite for iron has been pickish of late. And stocks of iron ore, brought down last fall before ice closed the lakes, are still piled up—some 15 per cent higher than a year ago, and represent a five-month supply.

The big steel companies only now are sending out their first ore-laden ships, about a month later than last year, although the lakes have been freed of ice.

Some iron miners look with suspicion on the proposal to open the Great Lakes to ocean traffic through the St. Lawrence. They know that big deposits of Labrador iron are about to be tapped, and that a railroad to bring them to the north bank of the St. Lawrence will soon be completed. Some fear the competition of that Labrador ore with Mesabi ore at the Lake Erie ports near the steel mills.

But advocates of the St. Lawrence project point out that the water distance would be about the same for either ore cargo; and that the Labrador ore would first have to travel by rail from the mine to the boat, giving the Minnesota ore a cost advantage.

And then there's taconite. It wouldn't be the first time a once rejected candidate won a stellar role.

Board Adopts Calendar For School Term

Classes To Open On Sept. 8 In Schedule Submitted By Betts

The Board of Education Monday night approved a calendar for the 1954-55 school term calling for the opening of classes Sept. 8 and closing June 9.

The board adopted Supt. Ralph W. Betts' recommendation after the faculty had voted 95-65 in favor of the calendar.

The calendar calls for 182 days of school with a teachers' meeting Sept. 7. Holidays will be Oct. 29, Nov. 11, Nov. 25-26, Dec. 18-Jan. 3, Feb. 22, April 2-11 and May 30.

Under the other calendar favored by 65 teachers, classes would have started Sept. 2 and ended June 3.

The board appointed Jay Gibson as speech therapist for the next term at a salary of $3,450. Supt. Betts said Gibson must be given credit for three years' military service.

The State Department of Education will pay $1,000 of his salary, he added.

Hazel Smith Dunn, a 1948 high school graduate, was approved as an elementary music teacher for the next term, and Mrs. Beatrice Dornan, a substitute teacher at Neville, was placed on the regular salary schedule for the present term.

The board authorized Miss Kathryn Liebschner, clerk, to sign a petition asking the city to pave Maryland Ave., which adjoins the new East Junior High School.

Supt. Betts said he was told by Walter Henry, assistant city engineer, that the street can be paved with 2½-inch blacktop on a slag base and with curbing for $6.50 per foot on each side.

Henry estimated the cost at $3.50 per foot for blacktop, $1 a foot for slag and $2 a foot for curbing, Betts reported.

Because the board approved the purchase of the playground from the Horace Mann Home and School Association for $1,000, it now owns ground on both sides of the street and will have to pay $13 a foot for the paving in some places.

Members said the board's cost will be approximately $3,900.

The building committee was authorized to approve plans for modernizing toilet rooms at Horace Mann School. The board also approved repair of the roof at the Taft School.

Betts was authorized to deal with the West End Playground Association for the replacement of equipment damaged when the lot was closed during construction of the East Liverpool-Wellsville super-road.

Betts said the board agreed to replace the equipment as part of its settlement with the state which bought some of Patterson Field for the roadway.

The board approved rental of the high school auditorium tonight for the Republican rally. A fee of $10 was set.

Bills totaling $5,479.09 were approved.

All members were present except J. E. Curry, who is attending the USPA-IBOP wage conference in Atlantic City.

Conference Held On Countywide CD

LISBON—Municipal and county officials conferred Monday with a state Civil Defense official to discuss establishment of a countywide CD program.

Col. Lee F. McCarthy of Youngstown, executive assistant of the Third Area of the adjutant general's department, met with Mayor Wilbur Warren, Gerald Sanders, Lisbon CD director, and county commissioners.

McCarthy said there is a need for a stronger more unified CD effort between the villages, cities and rural areas. The commissioners advised McCarthy to consult with Donald Elliott of Rogers, CD director for the rural areas, to make plans for a broader program.

McCarthy appeared at the request of Sanders, who has headquarters in the old Lincoln School.

Rennel

WILMINGTON, OHIO "Life is worth living thanks to Rennel," writes Mrs. R. Swearinger, North Mulberry St., Wilmington, Ohio. "Before taking Rennel I was so overweight, so sluggish that I felt miserable. I wore a size 44 dress, weighed 198 lbs. With Rennel I have reduced my weight to 130 lbs. I wear a size 18 dress. I feel so much better, I can enjoy life, it's really worth living now."

Ask your druggist for 4 ounces of liquid RENNEL Concentrate. You'll never know a hungry moment while reducing with RENNEL.

Yes... MIRACLES Happened at Fatima!

You may not agree with the Catholic belief in miracles.

Perhaps you don't believe in miracles at all ... and especially not in miracles attributed to the prayer of the Blessed Virgin.

But if God does look with special favor upon Mary ... and does wondrous things at her request ... is it not of vast importance to you to find out? Is it not worth the few minutes required to examine the evidence?

What, for example, did God's angel mean when he said:

"Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou amongst women ..."?

Was she to be full of grace only temporarily—and "blessed amongst women" only during her life on earth?

This is not reasonable in view of Mary's unique role as the earthly mother of the Son of God. Nor can we discard and forget Mary if we believe Holy Scripture, for there we find Mary's words (Luke 1:48); "... henceforth all generations shall call me blessed." Where, excepting among Catholics, does anyone honor Mary as did God Himself?

"But," you may insist, "show me a miracle! And prove that Mary had anything to do with it."

We might, of course, recall that Christ's mother appeared to Bernadette at Lourdes in France, and that scientifically-authenticated cures have been occurring there ever since. Or we might cite similar apparitions to the three children at Fatima, Portugal, and the subsequent awesome spectacle of the sun spinning and dancing on its axis and then seeming to plunge toward the earth ... a spectacle witnessed by 70,000 persons. And we could mention Mary's prophecies concerning the conditions under which Russia would be converted.

But Catholics don't require earth-shaking supernatural demonstrations to attract Mary's love, nor to prove her influence at the throne of God. It's the little "miracles" that take place in their daily lives when ... in faith and trust ... they pray: "Hail, Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee...."

Catholics pray for one another and ask the saints in Heaven to join them in prayer. "I believe," says the Apostles' creed, "in the communion of saints." And Mary is in Catholic hearts the greatest of the saints. So we ask her to intercede for us with God, Who has often performed miracles in answer to her prayer.

An exciting and authentic pamphlet—describing the miraculous happenings at Fatima and a peace plan from Heaven—will be sent you in a plain wrapper. And nobody will call on you. Write today for Pamphlet No. KC-41.

Two Countries Hint Support To Save Indo

New Zealand And Australia Indicate Will To Join Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Australia and New Zealand were reported today to have expressed strong interest in joining the United States in possible "united action" to save Indochina and Southeast Asia from Communism.

Both governments were understood to have stopped short of a firm "yes" only because of Britain's refusal to adopt a like course until after the current Geneva conference with Red China and Russia.

But Australian and New Zealand interest in the plan put forth by Secretary of State Dulles is reported strong enough that American officials are hoping the two will persuade Britain to join up rather than split the British Commonwealth.

Dulles was said to be pressing his united action plan at Geneva even though informed American officials regard the fall of the Indochina stronghold of Dien Bien Phu as only a matter of time.

The loss of Dien Bien Phu to the Red-led Vietminh, they said, would make all the more imperative united action to rescue Indochina.

Just last night, 12 key members of the Senate and the House, both Democrats and Republicans, were given a State Department fill-in on Indochina and other world trouble points. The briefing by Acting Secretary Walter Bedell Smith was based on messages sent by Dulles from Paris and Geneva.

Coming away from the briefing, several of the lawmakers commented that "things look dark all over."

One of them, Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), said in an interview the "next few days will be of vital importance to the West." Smith, chairman of a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on the Far East, said the coming day or two "should tell the story at Dien Bien Phu."

Britain's willingness to join Australia, New Zealand and other nations in a united front against Red encroachment in Southeast Asia could open the way for free world countries to reinforce French Union forces with military units of their own.

Dulles advocated the "united action" approach in a speech March 29. Later he issued specific invitations to nine countries with interests in Southeast Asia.

Thailand accepted. The Philippines indicated it would join. France and the three Indochina states—Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam—have informally hinted at acceptance.

Britain's membership, however, is regarded as crucial to the plan's success because Dulles reportedly does not believe the United States should "go it alone" if other allies refuse to participate.

In London, the British were reported to have rejected for the present any idea of direct intervention in Indochina. But informants indicated Britain may send more troops to Malaya and perhaps stage a show of naval force off Indochina.

Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, left London by plane last night, headed for Washington where, he said before takeoff, "no doubt my report will go to President Eisenhower soon after my arrival."

Phone Union Rejects Delay On Negotiations

CLEVELAND (AP)—The CIO Communications Workers Union has rejected an Ohio Bell Telephone Co. proposal that contract negotiations over a paid health insurance plan be postponed.

The contract—which covers 17,000 employes—ran out yesterday, but provided for automatic extension during the talks, begun a month ago.

Ohio Bell, which already has a paid sick-leave plan, asked first for a two-month postponement of the sessions, and then for an indefinite postponement. Union representative Esther Woeste said the CWA could see nothing to gain by a postponement.

Trustees Resolve Issue

West Point To Get Lights Despite Plea For Road Work

WEST POINT — Despite opposition from rural and farm people, Madison Township trustees Monday night voted 2-1 to erect five street lights in unincorporated West Point, ending a debate which has kept township residents boiling for four months.

As the lightning flashed outside, another storm ranged inside the West Point Grange Hall where 50 persons, mostly farmers, had a word battle with trustees over the proposed lighting system.

It broke down into two factions—those who wanted township funds used for improving the area's 60-mile road system and those who favored installing lights at the most "dangerous" spots.

The first group consisted of rural residents and the other chiefly of 300 West Pointers.

After a two-and-a-half-hour argument, Charles Snyder, trustee, made the motion to erect five lights 165 feet apart on the Grange Rd. and on Route 518. The yearly cost, Snyder said will be $159, or $13.25 per month.

W. H. McCaskey, chairman, seconded the motion but Frank Albert Rogers opposed.

Snyder, before making the motion, said, "I believe five lights will not be asking too much of you. This will be fair to both sides."

Rogers rejected the motion because the contract with the Ohio Power Co. must be signed for at least 10 years. "If we could sign a shorter contract, I may agree to a lighting system," he said.

Snyder pointed out that if West Point citizens decide to incorporate the Board of Trustees would stand to lose "about $2,000 annually" in taxes from the county.

H. C. Adams of the southern part of the township, where the major opposition exists, expressed the opinion of his neighbors when he said, "we need good roads more than we need lights. We can use a flashlight or lantern, but we can't travel in mud," he told the assembly.

Other grievances registered were that bridges are unsafe for school bus travel, that ditches are left to clog, flooding farmland, and that ruts are making roads impassable.

Mrs. Inez Watson, a farm wife, said, "if the roads were in good condition we would pay $25 a month for a street lighting system, but most of the township roads are nothing but oxen paths."

Drill Squad At Wellsville Enters Parade At Alliance

The drill squad of American Legion Post 70 in Wellsville will participate Sunday in a "Loyalty Day" parade at Alliance as it resumes activity after the winter lull.

The 27 members have been working out at the post home each Monday and Friday for several weeks and will wear new equipment and partly new uniforms.

The Alliance "Loyalty Day" parade is being held to counter the May Day "peace" rallies of the Communist Party in Iron Curtain countries.

It will be the drill squad's first public appearance since November when it closed the football season with a flag-raising ceremony at Nicholson Stadium.

The new equipment will include white boots, blue plumed West Point style hats, blue and gold shirts and white gloves and white pistol belts.

Harold Dickinson, the first drill sergeant, will wear an all-white uniform. He said members are to meet at the home Sunday at 12:30 for the Alliance trip.

Other drill sergeants are Clyde Hurd and Norman Stillwell.

Members of the marching unit are Earl Smith, Walter Westlake, Earl Leughmeyer, William Gitschier, Jerome Gitschier, Joe DeSenze, Richard Baughman, Robert Hayes, Donald Henthorn, Fred Baker, Harry Excell, Frank VanDyne, William Rager, Robert Beresford.

Samuel Maylone, Gene Williamson, James Creature, C. C. Leatherberry, Robert Wetzel, Albert O'Rourke, Dorman Householder, Vernon Rose, Raymond Dickey and William Bratt.

West Virginia Children Due For First Polio Serum

CHARLESTON (AP) — The state's first inoculations with the new polio vaccine are scheduled for 1,400 Cabell County youngsters tomorrow.

About 3,000 second-grade pupils in Kanawha County, as well as a group in Putnam, will be vaccinated on Thursday and Friday. Wayne county children will receive their first shots on Friday.

In all, about 8,200 pupils in Kanawha, Putnam, Cabell, Wayne and McDowell counties will receive the test innoculations. McDowell's plans were not available here immediately.

A series of three shots will be given each youngster participating in the program.

In Kanawha, the second innoculations will be given Thursday and Friday of next week, with the third "booster" shot scheduled for June 3-4.

Texas Fugitive To Face Lausche On Extradition

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A fugitive from a Texas prison for 18 years, Columbus H. Bennett must appear May 6 before Gov. Frank J. Lausche at an extradition hearing.

Bennett has been identified by police as Christopher Columbus Howard Hair, who was serving a life term as a habitual criminal before his 1936 escape from the Huntsville, Tex., penitentiary.

Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas requested the hearing, which takes precedence over any local action, according to Common Pleas Judge Norman McCabe, who yesterday denied both a writ of habeas corpus and a request to reduce Bennett's $10,000 bond.

A house painter in Toledo since his escape, Bennett came to the attention of authorities after his 14-year-old son was accused of attempting to steal a toy fire engine.

Builders Offer Wage Boost To End Strike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Building Trades Employers' Assn. last night offered a graduated wage increase in an effort to end a strike by AFL carpenters and Joiners Local 200.

Contractors' spokesmen said the new proposal calls for an increase of 7½ cents-an-hour until Jan. 1, then a further 2½ cent-an-hour boost until expiration of a new contract, April 30, 1956.

The union will vote later this week whether to accept the offer.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MYERS

Restraint Leads To Safety

You have read and heard about the accident-prone adult. You also know about the child who is "always getting hurt."

On the other hand, there are some children who, through childhood and adolescence, almost never get hurt, even thoug they have used all sorts of tools during these years.

Sometimes the baby beginning to walk gets bumps when older persons urge him to walk and insist on helping him.

It's after the tot can walk and run about that he may often be hurt.

If he learns early and without doubt that there are certain things he must not do, learns some early inhibitions, his frequence of being hurt may be low. Also, it may be low if he is a rather calm, non-excitable child. The more jittery and excitable he is, of course, the more he needs to learn some basic inhibitions for his safety.

The wholly unrestrained child of two or three, especially if he is very excitable, is naturally inclined to rush forward without pausing or looking. He wildly chases another child or is chased by him through doors, down steps, against furniture or into some dangerous object. Standing by you on the sidewalk, he may dash into the street.

EVEN WHILE alone, he may readily run into objects, stumble over them or fall from them. Unrestrained, he explores many dangerous things and places and tampers with tools and gadgets before he has learned to use them safely.

The child who, at two or three, is always rushing her and there, "never looking where he is going" will probably have more accidents, drop more things, bump into more things or over them, when he approaches or enters adolescence.

We should be very patient with the young child. He is growing fast and may have poor co-ordination. But if, in earlier years, he has learned some caution and self-reliance, his falling over things during his early teens should not be so frequent.

All else being equal, the more nervous and jittery the child, of any age, the more accident-prone he is. Therefore, from the early years of the excitable child, we need to strive hard to calm him down.

We need fo work on ourselves as parents to be serene and to provide him with a calm, unexciting, satisfactory family atomosphere of love and understanding.

—:—

AS YOU and I know, a lot of jitteriness come from withing an a lot of it is contagious. Sometimes we need the physician's help for calming down ourselves and the child.

Our quiet manner and our quiet tones can be helpful. Then think of the thousands of ways we can make good suggestions with gentle words.

We can reduce needless noises and limit the jittery child's ecposure to exciting programs on the radio.

One of the best ways to quiet an excitable child is often to read to him and to encourage him in quiet, non-running, creative fun alone, and with other children, too.

My bulletins, "Early Steps in Safety" and "The Child Always Getting Hurt," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Hancock 4-H Council Hears Talk On Soil Organizations

Encil Brohard of Wellsburg, director of the Soil Conservation Service in Hancock and Brooke Counties, discussed the different organizations under the soil program at the meeting of the Hancock County Senior 4-H Council Monday night at the home of Oliver Johnson of Route 66. Johnson is county agricultural agent.

Brohard said 100 million acres of farm land have been destroyed and another 100 million acres badly damaged by fires, erosion and strip mining in the nation.

He told how the service is trying to help reclaim some of this land through programs educating farmers and land owners to combat this waste by contour farming, forest planting and other various means.

He stressed trees could be a crop for the farmers the same as wheat and oats. Brohard showed slides of local farms.

The Senior Council will sponsor a folk dance at the Brice Memorial Hall near New Cumberland May 13 at 7 p. m. Miss Mary Ann Busch of the recreation department of Oglebay Park will be in charge.

Further plans were also discussed for a 4-H nature walk Saturday at Tomlinson Run State Park beginning at 7:30 p. m. Some 14 clubs of the county are expected to participate and William Murray of New Cumberland will be in charge.

Richard Brenneman announced a public nature walk will be conducted May 8 at the park. It will start at 7:30 a. m.

A profit of $83.60 was reported from a recent rummage sale.

The group voted to sponsor a scholarship for a 4-H member to attend the Older Youth conference June 21-27 at Jacksons Mill.

A committee was named to plan the annual county 4-H picnic and council circle June 30 at Tomlinson Run Park. Named were Miss Iris Cuppy, Bob Herron, Bob Evans, Mrs. Doris Watson and Mrs. Garnet Brenneman, all of the New Cumberland district.

Mrs. Alvin Reed of Chester, president, presided.

Lunch was served some 20 by Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Charles Brenneman and Mrs. Robert Lindsey.

The next meeting will be May 24 with Mrs. Janest Pollen of Paris, Pa.

Miami U. Pays U.S. 7-Year-Old Bill, Interest

CINCINNATI (AP) — Seven years ago Miami University bought from the United States government some muffin pans, meat cleavers and other kitchen equipment.

The War Assets Administration billed the Oxford, Ohio, school for $149.53. Miami neglected to pay, though the United States kept dunning the institution.

Finally Thomas Stueve, United States district attorney, brought the bill to the attention of the federal court.

Yesterday's mail brought a check from Miami comptroller Lloyd Goggin. Besides the $149.53 invoice, the school paid $61.22 in interest and $20 in court costs.

Stueve could not explain why it took the school seven years to pay for the items.

Heart Attack Fatal

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Richard W. Curry, 60, of Mansfield died of a heart attack, Coroner D. C. Lavender ruled last night after an autopsy. Curry's body was found yesterday in his car which plunged over an embankment into Mifflin Lake.

Enthusiastic Angler Tells Of Jumping Trout

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — An enthusiastic fisherman out to beat the rush at Watoga State Park stretched his line a foot over the lake and waited until the 6 a.m. opening of trout season to drop it in.

It wasn't his fault, he protested, that a trout leaped up and snared the bait 10 minutes before the official opening time last Saturday morning.

That's one of the "facts" the Conservation Department uncovered in its survey of West Virginia fish and fishermen on the opening of trout season.

The story was backed by testimony from four witnesses, said Harry D. Van Meter, acting chief of the Fish Management Division.

Noted Engineer Dies

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Robert Polen, 70—"the engineer of presidential specials"—died yesterday at his Chillicothe home. Polen piloted special presidential trains carrying Herbert Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad before he retired.

Khrushchev's Power In Soviet Again Hinted

Communist Party Leader Makes Big Parliament Speech

NEW YORK, (AP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev has been singled out again for an unusual honor, indicating his powerful position in the Soviet setup.

Two outstanding Soviet leaders gave addresses—both important—in Moscow yesterday. One speech was delivered by Premier Georgi Malenkov, the other by Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party's Central Committee.

Malenkov's speech attracted more attention in the outside world—because he spoke first and because he mentioned the important subject of atomic weapons.

But Malenkov addressed the house of the Soviet Parliament which usually is considered the junior chamber, the Council of Nationalities.

Khrushchev spoke later to the Council of the Union, considered to be the senior house. It is the chamber of which Khrushchev and Malenkov are members and to which Stalin belonged.

Khrushchev's speaking spot would seem to carry the greater prestige. All the Russian party and government leaders present at these meetings will be quick to catch the hint.

At the last meeting of the Supreme Soviet, last August, only Malenkov gave a keynote address. That was when he announced Russia had the hydrogen bomb.

But this position as co-keynote speaker in the Supreme Soviet is not the only sign leading foreign specialists to wonder whether Khrushchev now does not have as much or perhaps more power than Malenkov.

A few days ago the party secretary celebrated his 60th birthday to front-page attention in the Soviet Press. For the anniversary he was given a little more in the way of orders and decorations than other Kremlin bigwigs received on their decade milestones.

Of still more importance was the subsequent publication of messages from Communist party leaders in the Soviet satellites congratulating Khrushchev. They were the kind of adulatory "happy birthdays" Stalin used to get.

These are the kind of signs which ambitious men in the Communist party and the Soviet government watch in their constant effort to figure out who will be the new Stalin.

Two Sets Of Golf Clubs In Stolen Car Sold

A Springfield man whose car was stolen last week by a London Prison Farm escapee learned two sets of golf clubs in the auto were worth only $13.50.

John Garber claimed his auto here Monday and then found out Zane Ray Kennedy of Steubenville, seized Friday night on Walnut St., had traded the golf clubs for $3.50 in gasoline and $10 in cash at a Smiths Ferry service station.

Meanwhile, Kennedy still is being held in jail here for prison farm officials, police said. He walked away from the farm Sunday, stole the auto in Springfield and then stole a set of West Virginia license plates in Mingo Junction Wednesday, the report said.

Kennedy was serving time for auto theft, police said.

Former City Man Manages Western Mill

Walter D. Finley of Ontario, Calif., former East Liverpool potter, is manager of a 25-ton tungsten mill being erected on the Broken Arrow Ranch in the Huachuca Mountains in Arizona.

Finley, a former liner at the Homer Laughlin and the Edwin M. Knowles plants, went to California about three years ago. He is a brother of William Finley of Route 30 near Lisbon.

The mill is nearly ready for operation and the company has a five-year contract to furnish tungsten for the government.

According to Finley a city for 20,000 persons will be constructed about the mill. The Army reportedly expects to move part of its Signal Corps from Ft. Monmouth, N. J., to the new locality.

ACTRESS RITA HAYWORTH is shown with her daughters, Yasmin (left), 4, and Rebecca, 9, after the movie queen won back custody of her two small daughters Monday. Accused of neglect, she was pronounced "a loving and devoted mother" by two former husbands and Dick Haymes, her present husband. The court, which had taken over custody of the children, agreed there was no evidence of willful neglect.

A 'Devoted, Loving Mother'

Rita Hayworth Regains Custody Of Two Children

NEW YORK (AP)—Rita Hayworth, aided by two ex-husbands in winning back custody of her two little girls, has settled down in a New York hotel suite with the children and her current husband.

The glamorous movie star is "a loving and devoted mother," declared the judge in announcing disposition of charges that the children had been neglected. He was quoting one former husband, actor Orson Welles.

The neglect case was worked out in a three-hour private conference yesterday with Children's Judge George W. Smyth in suburban White Plains. Present were representatives of the Westchester County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, which filed the complaint on which the case was based.

Smyth, who had placed the children in protective custody of the court last Friday but left them in the care of their governess, returned them to their mother. The charges of neglect were dismissed but the court agreement required Miss Hayworth to concede there had been at least a technical basis for the charge.

The girls, Yasmin, 4, and Rebecca, 9, had been left in the care of the governess, Mrs. Dorothy Chambers, while Rita went to Florida for a two-week vacation with her husband, crooner Dick Haymes.

The neglect petition, never made public, was filed after two neighbors complained that the children were not properly supervised as they played outside Mrs. Chambers' White Plains home. It's a neighborhood with heavy traffic, business establishments, motels and gasoline stations.

Prince Aly Khan, father of Yasmin, sent his lawyer into the conference to help his former wife fight the neglect charges. The prince stayed behind at Rita's White Plains hotel to play with his little daughter and afterwards reported, "I had a wonderful time. I spent the afternoon on my knees on the floor."

He declined to make any comment on the neglect case.

County Gets 3 Bids For Highway Asphalt

LISBON—Three bids for liquid asphalt for improving 153 miles of township and county roads were received by Columbiana County commissioners Monday.

Ohio Tar & Asphalt, Inc., of Canton was low with $165,180, the Ohio Paving Corp. of Bellaire asked $167,144, and Max J. Zeller of Columbus, $175,727.

W. A. Southan, president of the Board of Commissioners, said the bids were taken under advisement and the contract will be awarded soon.

The county highway department estimated the material would cost $177,840.

County Engineer Charles Snyder said this summer's road program is the largest yet. It includes 106 miles of township roads and 47 miles of county roads.

Woman Doing Washing Snagged By Fish Hook

Mrs. Thelma Thomas, 1110 St. Clair Ave., wasn't fishing Monday but she got hooked while washing clothes when the barb of an artificial lure, tangled in a towel, caught in her palm near the thumb.

The barbed hook had to be cut out by a physician at City Hospital at 11:30 a. m. Mrs. Thomas was also given lock jaw shots.

James Redmond, 19, of 2008 Pennsylvania Ave. Ext. was treated at the hospital for a lacerated left palm after he fell on glass about 7:15 last night.

Cliff Bennett, 17, of 117 W. Center Lane, was treated for a fractured left shoulder suffered at 1 p. m. while wrestling at the high school.

Midland Driver Cited After Chester Collision

A Midland motorist was cited on a hazardous driving charge after a collision Monday night at Carolina Ave. and 6th St., Chester.

Hobart R. Blankenship, cited by Patrolman Harold Davis, will appear Friday night before Mayor George Scott in connection with a collision that damaged his 1949 sedan and a 1947 sedan driven by Noah Woods of Indiana Ave., Chester.

Police said Woods was driving west on Carolina Ave. and starting a left turn onto 6th St. when his auto was hit in the rear by Blankenship's.

Meanwhile, Norman William Stillwell of Commerce St., Wellsville, forfeited a $17.50 bond last night for failure to appear before Squire Eugene Allison at Chester on a hazardous driving charge. He was arrested Sunday night by West Virginia State Police on Route 30.

Manslaughter Charged

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—State Highway Patrolmen filed a second-degree manslaughter charge yesterday against Mrs. Martha Moyer, 30, of Rising Sun in Wood County. Miss Bettie May Forney, 24, of Fostoria, died Friday of injuries suffered when Mrs. Moyer's car left a rural road. She was a passenger in the Moyer car.

New Officers Named At Taft

Dr. Bailey Outlines Child Development

John M. Thompson was elected president for the next term when the Taft School Association held its final meeting Monday night.

Others elected are Mrs. Francis Wotring, vice president, and Mrs. Margaret Thompson, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Lilyan Alpern is retiring president.

The medical aspect of child development was discussed by Dr. C. H. Bailey, who pointed out that the development begins with the embryo and its "savage nature is molded into a well-integrated member of society by parents and teachers."

Dr. Bailey stressed the need for a more thorough pre-school examination of the child.

George Hargraves, Lincoln School principal, outlined what fourth-graders can look forward to in later phases of their education.

A preview of the coming May Day festival was presented by the various grades.

Car Window 'Pops' Until It's Frosted

NEW PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Now they're popping.

After he put his car in the garage last night, City Councilman Albert Gopp said, the rear window started to shower small particles of glass over the back seat.

That went on about an hour, he said, until the window frosted itself.

Bevo, Oliver 'Happy And Satisfied' With $30,000 Contract

Francis Plans To Build Home With His Share

"We're satisfied and happy," Clarence (Bevo) Francis and Newt Oliver said after they arrived in Wellsville Monday night following their signing of a $30,000 contract with Abe Saperstein, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters.

Bevo and his partner — Oliver — both agreed Saperstein met their terms when he signed them to his Boston Whirlwinds.

It was announced in New York the package deal called for an estimated $30,000 for the pair and Bevo backed this up by saying "the split between him and Newt will be about $17,000 for Bevo and $13,000 for Newt."

Bevo declared "this will help to settle my financial difficulties." Bevo had announced several weeks ago he was planning on quitting Rio Grande College because of money trouble. This was about two weeks before he was expelled.

"I'm going to put the money in the bank and maybe build a home near Hammondsville in the near future," the elongated cager remarked.

Bevo said "he and Newt had a written agreement on their part of the contract."

The former Wellsville High School cager said his plans for the summer aren't definite. "I may play some ball with the Whirlwinds on a tour in the South or just work until time to start practicing in October."

Newt, who stayed with Bevo overnight after the pair flew back from New York, has another meeting with Saperstein sometime next week to map out final plans for the team's tour this fall.

Newt said one of the first things he was going to do was sell his station wagon and buy a new car. He used the station wagon to transport the Rio Grande team.

Bevo and his family are staying with his father, Clarence Francis of Hammondsville.

"Just about a year ago I signed a basketball player at a figure I thought was unapproachable," said Saperstein in New York. "The time has come to up that ante for the highest priced team of basketeers in the history of the sport. I have signed Bevo Francis and his coach, Newt Oliver, as a team for a figure in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Presumably Saperstein first referred to Walter Dukes of Seton Hall, signed last year at a figure reputed to be around $25,000.

Saperstein, the rotund mastermind of the touring Globetrotters, announced his deal with Francis and Oliver at a press luncheon and to make it dramatic, presented the pair with a bushel basket containing $4,000 in one dollar bills.

Francis has been the center of swirling controversy ever since he first started playing for Rio Grande in the 1952-53 season. He made 1,954 points in 39 games but the NCAA said the record could not stand since much of the opposition were not regular four-year colleges.

The past season, playing a better schedule, Francis made 1,255 points in 27 games for a 46.5 average—a new record for small college players.

This was recognized by the NCAA along with a flock of other marks such as the most field goals, 444; most free throws, 367; most points scored in one game, 38, and most free throws in one game, 37.

Whenever he played, Francis and the Rio Grande team drew big crowds, and Saperstein undoubtedly had this gate appeal in mind when he signed the 6-foot-9 youth.

Johnstown Lands Pair On Hockey All-Stars

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Johnstown Jets have placed wingman Don Hall and Arnie Schmautz on the International Hockey League all-star team.

League coaches selected goalie Bill Tibbs of Toledo, center Gordon Vejprava of Marion, and defensemen Rollie McLenahan of Cincinnati and Alfred (Gaff) Turner of Grand Rapids for the remaining spots.

Tibbs has been named the league's top goalkeeper for three straight seasons. McLenahan also coaches the Cincinnatians, the nine-club loop's championship outfit.

Second team all-star choices were goalie Charlie Hodge, Cincinnati; defensemen Mickey Keating of Cincinnati and Otto Heller of Marion; center Billy Watson, Fort Wayne, and defensemen Ken Schultz of Marion and Bob Rawlyk of Troy.

Slade Gains Decision Over Hurricane Jackson

NEW YORK (AP)—The hurricane season is on the wane in the heavyweight ranks.

Hurricane Tommy Jackson, who climbed from prelim boy to No. 3 contender on three sensational fights, is back in the pack, deflated at the hands of clever Jimmy Slade.

Spoiler Slade exposed Jackson's weakness for a well-planned retreat with flashing counter-fire while winning an unanimous 10-round decision last night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway.

Judge Bert Grant had it 7-3, Judge Americo Schiavone 6-4 and Referee Barney Felix 5-4-1. The AP card also was solid for Slade 7-3.

6 Colts Get Last Chance Today For Derby Position

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Six three-year-old colts get their last chance today to prove their worthiness for the 80th running of the $100,000 added Kentucky Derby.

The mile and one-quarter of the derby will be run at Churchill Downs Saturday starting at 4:30 p. m., EST before the usual crowd of some 100,000 and thousands more who'll see the race on their television screens or hear it on their radios. It will be televised from 4 to 4:45 p. m. (CBS) and broadcast from 4:15 to 4:45.

Eight actually have been named for the $10,000 added trial but two of them—Andy Crevolin's well liked Determine and stablemate Allied—will be at the starting gate Saturday, regardless of what they do this afternoon. That is they will be unless struck by the injury jinx that has waylaid some half-dozen worthy derby candidates this spring, including the two winter book choices—Turn-to and Porterhouse.

The trial, won by three derby winners—Citation in 1948, Hill Gail in 1953 and Dark Star last year—will go a long way toward deciding whether a record field will battle over the Downs' mile and a quarter for America's most coveted turf honor. The record number of starters is 22 in 1928, the year Reich Count ran off with the big prize.

The little grey Determine, winner of six straight stake races on the West coast, figures to so outclass the field in today's trial that he'll scare off all except his running mate and possibly Hasty Road from Allie Rebuen's Hasty House Farm of Toledo, Ohio.

Completing the derby trial lineup are Close Up, owned by J. C. Pollard and T. I. Harkins, H. H. Mundy's Sir Chris, Grace Kosiba's Sub Factor, S. R. Palutsis' Thunderbird, and Hot Pursuit, last hopeful of an original group of five entered by Harry F. Guggenheim's Cain Hoy Stable.

Redlegs Face Tough Test

CINCINNATI (AP) — The eastern clubs take a quick tour through Cincinnati in the next 10 days and the stay-at-home Redlegs should know by then how far they may be able to go in the National League race.

The Reds, idle like all other major league clubs yesterday, play a newly invigorated Pittsburgh tonight and tomorrow.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts then fields his boys against the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers and Manager Walter Aslton, a neighbor who resides in the wintertime at Darrtown, Ohio. The Brooks are here for a three-game series Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Philadelphia will be here for one day only, a Sunday doubleheader. New York ends the eastern invasion next week.

The club cut its squad to 28 players with the outright release of 34-year-old infielder Connie Ryan, who broke into the major leagues in 1942, and the sale of pitcher George Zuverink to the Detroit Tigers. No sale price was announced for the 27-year-old right-hander.

Louisville Remains Threat In AA Race

By The Associated Press

The Louisville Colonels, only American Association team with any chance of catching up with league-leading Indianapolis in the immediate future, kept themselves within striking distance last night.

The Colonels beat Minneapolis 4-3 on a triple by Bob Broome and an infield single by Norm Zauchin in the seventh inning.

The win kept the Colonels within a game and a half of Indianapolis, which won its sixth straight last night, beating Columbus 5-4. Rocky Colavito hit a two-run homer for the Indians.

Charleston, meantime, snapped a five-game losing streak, coming from behind for a 4-3 victory over Kansas City.

Rain postponed the Toledo-St. Paul game.

67-Year-Old Bowler Moves Into Top Ten

SEATTLE (AP) — An elderly Spokane, Wash., trundler making his third try for American Bowling Congress honors shouldered into the top 10 of the singles division at the 51st ABC tournament yesterday.

George Earl, who has been bowling 51 of his 67 years, rolled a 712 pinfall to take over third place in the singles. His games were 232, 254, 226.

In another standings change, Harry Livesely Jr., of Missoula, Mont., an ice foreman for the Northern Pacific Railway, fired a 1,928 total to take over third place on the all-events ladder. Livesely totaled 630 in team competition, 681 in doubles and 617 in singles.

New Baseball League To Organize Tonight

An organization meeting of a new baseball league for older boys will be held tonight at 7:30 at the East Liverpool High School auditorium.

Merrill Hall and Ed Dopler, who are planning the new loop, asked youths from 15 to 17 and their parents to attend.

Hall said the group has not decided what national organization to join.

The formation of the new league will give the district enough baseball to cover youths from 9 through 17.

The Little League is for those 9 to 12 and the PONY League for 13 and 14-year-olds.

'Screwball' Year Looms For Baseball

By JACK HAND
AP Sports Writer

Blame it on the weather, the H-bomb or the McCarthy hearings, but this looks like one screwball baseball season.

Ransom Jackson hits like the late Shoeless Joe Jackson. The New York Giants win three straight shutouts. Cleveland benches a .419-hitting first baseman. The New York Yankees bat a sour .220 while the Chicago Cubs slug at .326. Rookies Wally Moon of the St. Louis Cards and Bill Tuttle of Detroit ride in the .400-plus stratosphere.

Now comes the showdown, the majors first shakedown cruise of the season with the first intersectional tests. It's about time.

The Chicago White Sox come East in first place, winning seven of their last eight and ready to take advantage of the Yankees' spotty spring form.

Paul Richards, who has contended all along that "the Yanks can be beaten," lists a former Yankee, Don Johnson, to open in Yankee Stadium today. With Nellie Fox and Johnny Groth among the top 10 hitters, Ferris Fain tops in runs batted in and Graddy Hatton relieving Minnie Minoso of his third-base chores, the Sox look like a formidable challenger to the Yanks.

The Yanks haven't been able to hit any kind of pitching, left or right. Although every manager saves up the southpaws for New York, they were shut out Saturday by a rookie right-hander, Bob Trice, in Philadelphia.

Detroit, a real surprise in the first two weeks, opens its first trip in Philadelphia, where the "new look" A's appear tougher than usual. Tuttle, the Tigers' new center fielder, is off to a fine start but it's too early to buy him as a "phenom."

The East will watch with interest Cleveland's switch of Al Rosen to first to make room for rookie Rudy Regalado. The move, of course, sent Bill Glynn (.419) to the bench. The Indians open in Boston today against the Red Sox, who have been hurt badly by the injury to Mel Parnell, following Ted Williams' broken collarbone. Both the Indians and Red Sox have been struggling so far, playing under .500.

Potters Draw JU In Sectional Baseball Meet

East Liverpool will open defense of its Eastern Ohio sectional baseball title won last year against Jefferson Union next Monday at Steubenville.

Pairings for the tournament were made at a meeting of coaches and school officials Monday night at Steubenville.

The Potters are in the lower bracket with Steubenville Big Red, which drew a bye.

In the upper bracket, Mingo will play Toronto next Monday and Wintersville will meet Steubenville Central May 4.

The bracket finals will be played Wednesday, May 5, with two winners advancing to the district tourney at Bridgeport the following week.

East Liverpool defeated Toronto, 3-0, to win the section crown last year, but lost to Tiltonsville, 3-2, in district play.

Trabert Admits Desire To Turn To Pro Ranks

NEW YORK (AP)—United States Davis Cup ace Tony Trabert admitted today his biggest ambition is to turn professional and cash in on his talents.

"There's no use trying to kid anyone," Tony said. "I want to turn professional and get some money before it's too late. That's why I'm leaving school shortly. You can't concentrate on two things at once, and from now on, it will be strictly tennis with me."

The 23-year-old University of Cincinnati student was married several months ago and that probably changed his outlook on things considerably. Now he has responsibilities.

Tony, on whom the burden of wresting the Davis Cup back from Australia rests, will leave for a tour of Europe Sunday. He'll sharpen his strokes in the hope of winning both the Wimbledon and United States titles.

LaScola's Dog Wins 15-Inch Beagle Trials

Dogs owned by the LaScola brothers of Wellsville and Carroll Richards of Weirton took top honors during the field trials Sunday at the East Liverpool Beagle Club.

The LaScola's Cee Gee Wingie placed first in the 15-inch class, while Richards' Rich Line Davey was first in the 13-inch class.

Alf Pritchett's Ceramic City Queen Bee was second in the 15-inch division.

Midvale Coach Resigns

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP)—Bob Singerman, head football, basketball and track coach at nearby Midvale High School, has resigned his post, effective at the end of the school year. No reason was given for the action.

Outboard Boating Slowly Takes Over Limelight As Family Sport

CHICAGO—A few years ago the average owner of a small outboard-powered boat was the sport fisherman. He took off on short trips to his favorite angling waters.

Now the picture is changing. Papa, mama and the youngsters pile in a trim outboard and spend weekends on the waterways. And if the water is handy it's a cinch that teen - age sonny and sister will put the boat to use for water skiing or plain crusing for fun.

Outboard boating has become a family sport, and just about as close to full time recreation as the weather in any given area will permit.

Distance from water no longer is a discouraging factor. Small boat rental docks exist by the thousands on lakes and streams—docks where boats may be safely moored for the summer at a nominal fee. And the development of low-cost boat trailers has put the outboard owner on wheels.

The outboard motor and boat, says Guy Hughes, executive director of the Outboard Boating Club of America, is beginning to take its place with the family of modest means just as did the automobile and automatic refrigerator.

The OBC, representing the Outboard Boat Manufacturers Association and the Outboard Motor Manufacturers Association, is record-keeper for both industries.

"Our survey," says Hughes, "shows that about 500,000 outboard motors were sold in 1953—but this supplies only about one-half of the demand. Virtually all outboard manufacturers have increased production and this year sales figures should exceed 600,000. This again will be several hundred thousand short of filling the demand.

"One noteworthy figure in the survey was on new motor ownership. About 225,000 people in 1953 were buying their first motor.

"The size of motors also has increased in recent years. People are getting bigger boats because it's becoming a family sport. Fifty-three per cent of outboards sold in 1953 were 14 feet in length and 24 per cent were 12-footers. The other 23 per cent was divided between small pram-type craft and outboard cabin cruisers ranging from 17 to 21 feet. Right now more than 50 manufacturers are producing cabin cruisers.

"Outboard motor sales also reflect the trend toward larger family-type boats. In 1949, a total of 58 per cent of motors sold were 7 horsepower or less; 28 per cent were between 7 and 12 horsepower and 14 per cent were in excess of 12 horsepower.

"However, in 1953 sales, 46 per cent were under 12 horsepower; 34 per cent in the 7-12 horsepower class, while the number of larger motors of more than 12 horsepower rose to 20 per cent of total sales."

Hughes even breaks down outboard motor and boat sales. He says 35 per cent of the sales were in 18 New England and North Atlantic states; another 35 per cent were in 12 North Central states including the Great Lakes area, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas; 20 per cent in the West and Southwest and 10 per cent in the semi-arid west central part of the nation.

Hughes says that the middle-income group, which includes salesmen, clerical, skilled and semi-skilled workers, accounted for 49.8 per cent of total outboard sales and 47.7 per cent of small boat sales.

"This is indicative," he says, "that the lesire time resulting from the 40-hour week, plus the high level of income, is causing people to turn more and more to the waterways. Highway traffic congestion and freedom of the waterways also are contributing factors."

SINCE BOATING is becoming a family sport, Guy Hughes of the Outboard Boating Club says this type of craft will be more in demand this year. It's a 21-foot cabin cruiser and sells for just under $1,800. Factory finished without paint and hardware, it can be bought for less than $1,000.

Chester Hands Newell 5th Straight Defeat, 7-2

The Chester Panthers won their first baseball game of the season as they handed Newell its fifth straight setback Monday afternoon at Clark Field, Newell. The score was 7-2.

Coach John Robison's crew had taken the lead, 2-0, in the first inning, but Chester came back for six runs in the second to win going away.

Coach Andy Zubel's nine added another tally in the third and after that the two teams played scoreless ball for four innings.

In the big second inning, Dick Davis opened the frame by drawing a base on balls. He stole second and advanced on a single by Jim Staley. Davis scored on a hit by Jim Torrence.

Bill Davis was safe on a bunt to load the sacks and Dick Angle came through with a double that cleaned the bases. Angle scored on a hit by Bill Kimble, who in turn crossed the plate on a single by Cliff Shenton.

Larry Foltz came through with a bases-loaded single to account for Newell's two runs. Jack Simian, Kenney Rayle and Earl Kiger all had hit singles.

Shenton hurled for Chester, giving up five hits, walking three and fanning eight.

Ed Siminich was on the mound for Newell. He allowed eight hits, struck out seven and issued three bases on balls.

Potter-Red Knight Game Washed Out

Rain washed out a scheduled baseball game between East Liverpool and Toronto Monday afternoon at Toronto. Faculty Manager N. F. Lorah said the game will be rescheduled. Meanwhile, the Potters were slated to play Steubenville Big Red this afternoon at Patterson Field, weather permitting.

Potter Golfers Lose To Big Red, Weirton

East Liverpool High School's golf team came out on the short end of a triangular meet with Weirton and Steubenville Big Red Monday afternoon at the Steubenville Country Club.

The Potters lost to Big Red, 11½-½, and to Weirton, 8-4. Steubenville captured its match with Weirton, 8-4.

East Liverpool has now won one and dropped three matches this season. The Potters are slated to meet Steubenville Central Thursday at Steubenville.

Gary Wade led the Potters with a 91, while Peterson of Big Red was medalist with an 82.

Big Ten 'Reluctantly' Goes Along With TV

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten has decided "reluctantly" to go along with the NCAA's nationally-controlled television football program for 1954.

A spokesman said the conference intends to renew its efforts for regional television next year.

The decision was announced yesterday after a two-day meeting of Big Ten officials, including presidents of member schools.

The Big Ten previously had urged strongly a program which would permit a team to appear twice regionally, once at home and once away, or once nationally, whichever it desired.

WIBC Makes Progress

MILWAUKEE — Mrs. Jeanette Knepprath of Milwaukee has been president of the Woman's International Bowling Congress for 30 years. Since she first accepted the post the organization has risen from a membership of about 2,000 sanctioned bowlers in 28 cities to its present total of almost 700,000 members in 1,412 cities .The WIBC has almost 20,000 leagues throughout the country.

No Worries For Coach

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. — Arkansas Tech's "Wonder Boys," who won 25 out of 26 basketball games last season and led the nation in scoring with an average of 95.8 points per game, will be strong next season, too. Every member of the starting fire is due to return for the 1954-55 campaign. And one of the stalwarts, 6 feet 7 Don Sevier, is just a freshman.

Hune's dropped to third as Homer Laughlin came up with a 2889 series, good for second. Hune's had a 2885 in action last week.

Red's Poolroom, which had been second, and Prezzia's Market, previously in third, dropped to fourth and fifth, respectively.

High games Monday night were Fred Smith 213-200, Ralph Yanni 214, Ralph Welch 207, Charles Stewart 200 and Jim LaScola 201. High series: Welch 590, Les Hall 579, Yanni 568, Smith 565 and LaScola 563.

Four more teams will get into action tonight, beginning at 7.

Ludwig took first in the singles with a 580, followed by Hoskinson with 572 and Ruckman with 548. Hoskinson had the single high game score of 221.

Brownson Gets Director Post At Portsmouth

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Bob Brownson, Ohio coach of the year at Portsmouth High last season, will become the school's athletic director.

The Portsmouth school board made the appointment yesterday and also boosted Brownson's pay from $5,200 a year to $6,000 and gave him a two-year contract. Brownson had been mentioned as a likely successor to Chuck Mather as Massillon High School football coach but withdrew from the running last week.

Rosen To Stay At First On Tribe's Trip

BOSTON (AP)—Al Rosen, who still needs a mitt to go with his new job for the Cleveland Indians, declared today he would "learn how to play first base if it kills me."

"And it might, at that," he added as the Tribe prepared to open a three-game series with the Boston Red Sox.

Rosen, the American League's most valuable player, moved around from third when Manager Al Lopez decided to start rookie Rudy Regalado there.

The manager pointed out he had asked Rosen's approval before making the change. Rosen said "after we lost Saturday to the Tigers, Lopez called me over to his locker. He told me what he had in mind. He told me he wouldn't take me off third if I preferred to remain there."

"It may take a while," Rosen added, "but you can rest assured I'll learn how to play first base as well as third. It took me a while to learn how to play third base, too."

Whether Regalado, in his second season of professional baseball, can stick with the team is still undecided.

Lopez said "Rudy is green; he has plenty to learn. I don't know if he's a major leaguer yet." But then added, "I hope with all my heart he can make it."

The manager named Early Wynn to pitch today against Boston's Willard Nixon. Wynn has a 1-2 record while Nixon won his only previous start.

The Leopards broke the game open in the sixth with a six-run rally.

New Brighton got its markers in the fourth.

Jim Doak hurled for Midland and allowed four hits. Midland collected 15 hits off three New Brighton pitchers.

Broken Bone Won't Sideline Campanella

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Roy Campanella, who has caught all 11 games for the Brooklyn Dodgers this season with a broken bone in his left hand, plans to stay in the regular lineup despite the spring training injury.

The injury was revealed for the first time yesterday by Dodger Vice-President E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi in New York but both he and Camp minimized the seriousness of the break.

"I don't think it's affecting my hitting," said the stocky catcher, "but when I swing it just doesn't feel right. Every time I break my wrist on the swing it hurts. I've got my wrist taped tight to try to stiffen it so it won't twist too much."

While doctors have agreed no further harm would be done by continued playing with the injury, Bavasi said arrangements have been made for further X-rays to be taken in Cincinnati Thursday.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Build Slimness With Better Meals

In reducing, you want to lose fat and firm up the tissues as you slim down. When you approach your goal of healthy normal weight, it will be exciting to hear comments on how young you look.

One enthusiastic reducer wrote that a friend had exclaimed, "your skin is like a young girl's!" and then inquired, "What kind of a diet did you follow?"

—:—

WHAT A contrast from discouraged dieters who lament that every time they lose a few pounds, they get soft and flabby. What these reducers urgently need is more of the materials that shore up sagging tissues.

How do body tissues get in such a sad state of disrepair? From poor food habits.

The soft tissues of the body, as well as muscle tissues, are composed chiefly of protein. In order to replace flabby fat with good healthy tissue, plan every meal around a complete protein food.

Since the body cells are constantly renewing themselves, the cell structure must have an abundance of protein, as well as minerals, calcium and iron. Otherwise, the body withers. Vitamins are needed, too, for the proper use of the nutrients.

These are the protective foods in the amounts needed daily: One or two eggs, one pint of milk—whole, buttermilk or skim milk; six ounces of lean meat, fish or poultry; two or three vegetables, including a dark green leafy or yellow vegetable, and a raw salad, including green leaves; three fruits, one being oranges or grapefruit; a limited amount of whole grain or enriched bread.

THAT GROUP of foods, in average servings, totals approximately 1100 calories a day. On that protective diet, you can do a beautiful job of slimming down to normal weight.

Just as important, this pattern of eating helps to change your food habits. With these improved food habits, there is no question but that you will firm up body tissues as you slim down. And you'll feel so vitally alive, you'll never want to go back to the old fattening ways of eating.

Send for "Enery Boosting Diet" and "Take Your Choice Diet." Be sure to enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Post card requests will not be answered.

Traffic Light Answer Due

Glenmoor Group Will Meet With Road Head

A group of Glenmoor residents who have been working about a month to have the State Highway Department install a traffic signal at the intersection of Route 267 and the Y & O Rd. will apparently get a definite answer Wednesday when they are scheduled to confer with Dean T. Sever, division II engineer of New Philadelphia.

Robert Frontz of Glenmoor and the Rev. James Seaman of the United Presbyterian Church will make the trip with State Rep. Delmar T. O'Hara of Wellsville, who arranged the conference with Sever.

Some 400 persons have signed petitions for the light and six organizations have endorsed the proposal.

A seventh endorsement is expected tonight when the Glenmoor Parent-Teacher Association meets, Frontz said.

Others backing the project are the Glenmoor volunteer fire department, Glenmoor American Legion Post, St. Clair Township trustees, county commissioners, the congregation of the United Presbyterian Church and the Ruritan Club.

Frontz said many parents are sending their children to school by other routes because of the heavy uncontrolled traffic at the dangerous intersection. This will be pointed out to Sever and Rev. Seaman will also emphasize the problem caused by parking at his church about a block away.

Frontz said the group will ask that the light have a manual control with which firemen can direct traffic in the event of a fire or emergency.

Boy Scout Units Study Forest Fire Fighting

William Kesler of New Martinsville instructed Boy Scout Troops 43 and 26 of East Liverpool and Troop 27 of Chester in forest fire fighting techniques at a two day camping trip at Tomlinson Run State Park over the weekend.

Saturday afternoon, E. R. Chandler of Chester instructed the boys in nature study, which included a nature hike, talks on wildlife, plant and tree identification and flower study.

The Rev. A. F. Hanes, pastor of the Chester Christian Church, conducted Sunday morning services for the troops. His topic was "God and Nature." Members of Troop 27 gave a fire by friction demonstration and Troop 26 demonstrated knot tying.

Members of the district commissioner staff camping with the troops were Wilford Padgett, district commissioner; Eugene Seeley, assistant; Frank Snowden and Dave Fugate, neighborhood commissioners, and Eugene Molenaur, field executive for Columbiana Council.

The leaders were Paul Rinestine, Troop 43; Ralph Brewer and Lawrence Barrett, assistant, Troop 26, and Bill Sutherland Dave Elphistone and Ralph Hobbs, Troop 27.

Honest Cab Driver To Receive Reward

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago taxicab driver who found a diamond-studded platinum bracelet valued at $15,000 in his cab has been promised a suitable reward.

Howard Hannan, 39, had already turned in the bracelet last night when a Detroit couple, Gerald Krandall, 40, an industrial diamond dealer, and his wife, Sonja, reported the loss.

Krandall said he would reward Hannan if the insurance company doesn't.

More Or Less Civilized?

Let's Look At Ourselves In The Mirror

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Is America growing more civilized or less civilized?

That is a troublesome question to anyone who looks behind the widely shared prosperity that has made the ordinary man here better off than kings in former times.

Americans like to think of themselves now as probably the most civilized people in history —freedom-loving, peace - minded, and deeply generous to less fortunate nations.

Many Europeans, however, look at our reflection in the mirror and see a different image. They see us as a lucky rich kid, loaded with gold, who remains an uncultured juvenile delinquent, in love with violence for the sake of violence. They realize and often envy the fact that in a few hundred years we have carved the wealthiest country in the world out of the primeval wilderness. But they doubt that morally, in many ways, we have left the wilderness. They feel we haven't grown up.

Which portrait of the American people is true—the one we hold of ourselves, or the one so many foreigners hold?

The truth probably lies somewhere in between. But it certainly would do us no harm as a people to quit patting ourselves on the back and take a steadier look at ourselves in the mirror. How much of the American dream have we really achieved? How much have we lost or failed to fight for?

We have made a long climb up the road to civilization, no doubt of it. In the conquest of pain and cold and hunger and disease we have gone far toward victory over these age-old enemies to the dignity and pride of the human spirit.

No other country has even approached us in the mass production of charity, creature comforts, hospitals, churches, public libraries, new museums, swimming pools, and television programs.

These are signposts toward the goal of civilization, but they are not the goal itself. The building of a new cathedral does not of itself prove that the inhabitants of a town are any more pious, anymore than a new refrigerator in a kitchen guarantees a happy home.

What is civilization? Most people would agree that a civilized society is one in which free men live together in mutual self-respect and safety, at liberty to improve their lot in life according to their ability.

Under this definition, are Americans a civilized people? Not as much so as we'd like to think.

Our system of individual liberties, our constitutional safeguards against the growth of tyranny, are among the world's political wonders.

But the finest laws are good only so far as they are obeyed or enforced. Respect for the other fellow's rights is the keystone of our laws, but how well is this principle being followed?

The latest FBI survey shows as a people we are becoming less law abiding.

How safe is an American in the pursuit of happiness and the ownership and use of his own property? The FBI estimated that in the first half of 1953 there was a murder or case of negligent manslaughter in this country every 40.3 minutes, a reported rape every 29.4 minutes, a robbery every 8.8 minutes, an aggravated assault every 5.71 minutes, a larceny every 25.6 seconds, a car theft every 2.31 minutes. More than 29,000 Americans were confronted by robbers using guns, knives or other weapons.

How peaceful are we—how civilized—when crime outstrips our population rate 4 to 1? We do need a good, long, hard look at ourselves in the mirror.

Wellsville Firemen Plan Homecoming June 27-July 3

Wellsville volunteer firemen will hold their annual homecoming June 27-July 3 with the traditional parade scheduled for Friday, July 2.

Jack Phillips, chairman, said invitations have been mailed to marching units, drum and bugle corps, bands and other organizations which have competed for prize money in the past.

Prizes in both junior and senior divisions go to the best drum and bugle corps, best band, best marching unit, best appearing fire company and the company with the best equipment. Several novelty prizes also are awarded. The event generally attracts about 100 100 units.

A carnival will be held at Central Park on 13th St. throughout the week and Phillips said a contract has been signed with the Gooding Amusement Co. of Columbus.

Phillips said a special matinee will be held in the Liberty Theater July 3 with the firemen giving away two bicycles. Tickets for children at 10 cents each will go on sale later, Phillips said.

Committees will be named and other arrangements completed at a meeting of the volunteers Sunday night at 8 in the fire station. Wayne Rose is president.

Firemen will also decide on a date for a luncheon for members of the varsity, reserve and freshmen basketball teams of the high school.

Just Look At Geneva Parley

State Of World A Mess Midway In 20th Century

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — If anyone wants to know the state of the world midway in the 20th century, all he has to do is look at the foreign ministers' conference just getting under way in Geneva. It's a mess.

There is even less hope for peaceful solutions than there was when the Big Four foreign ministers met at Berlin in January. And there were no solutions at Berlin.

At Geneva the foreign ministers of 19 countries, including the United States' Secretary of State Dulles, are to talk about peace in Korea, where there's a truce, and peace in Indochina, where there's war and no truce.

If the truth were known, Dulles probably wishes he was somewhere else. He's in a bit of a box before the meeting starts.

Russia and Red China are there. It's possible they might make some concessions in return for giving Red China a seat in the United Nations and for American recognition of the Communists as the legitimate government of China.

But Dulles has pretty well shut the door on any deal along those lines by stating this country's opposition to recognition or a U. N. seat for the Red Chinese.

The United States wants Red China to do two things:

1. Let Korea be united. This would mean letting North and South Koreans vote, in free elections, for the government they want. The South Koreans, outnumbering the North Koreans 4-1, would win.

But South Korea is an American ally. If China agreed to this arrangement, it would be handing all Korea over to the Allied side.

2. Withdraw aid from the Vietminh, led by Communist Ho Chi Minh, who are fighting the French in Indochina. That would result eventually, or it should, in victory for the French.

The Red Chinese fought almost three years in North Korea to keep it out of the hands of the West and wound up, under the truce, occupying it.

It's unthinkable they would let North Korea slip into the Allied camp. The Communists, Chinese and Russians, have not in a single instance yielded a foot of ground they took since World War II.

So they're not likely to start now.

Repeatedly American officials have stated the importance of Indochina to the West, saying its fall would open all Southeast Asia to communism.

By the same token, the Communists know the importance of Indochina to them. It's a little dreamy to think they'd do anything that would result in destroying Ho Chi Minh or losing an inch of ground he took.

Dulles can hardly have any hope that American desires for Korea and Indochina will be fulfilled at Geneva. His more immediate, critical problem would seem to be in keeping the American ally, France, from weakening.

The French are getting desperate in their losing fight with the Vietminh. Over the weekend they reportedly called for American and British help, greater and more direct, than any given them so far.

This hardly gave Dulles and the British a psychological advantage, coming as it did on the eve of the conference.

If the Communists at Geneva offer the French any kind of attractive truce, how can Dulles keep the French from accepting unless he promises American intervention to bail them out?

He'd have trouble doing that without congressional approval, and he didn't go to Geneva armed with that approval. For Dulles Geneva must look more like a sweatbox than a conference.
